Receives Standing Ovation in Unprecedented Appearance

Arafat Pleads Palestine Case at U. N.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Palestine leader Yasser Arafat, in an unprecedented appearance before the U.N. General Assembly, called today for the establishment of a Palestinian National Authority and said that "war starts in Palestine and peace starts in Palestine."

Arafat, under the heaviest guard in the history of the United Nations, received a standing ovation when he appeared before the assembly wearing his black and white checked Arab headdress and his customary khaki uniform. The seats of the Israeli delegation in the front row were empty.

Death threats from the militant Jewish Defense League led federal, New York City and U.N. guards to take the strictest precautions. Arafat flew in from Algiers before dawn today and was flown to the towering 38-floor U.N. glass skyscraper by a U.S. Army helicopter.

Outside the United Nations hundreds of Jews began gathering for a demonstration. Police held the first arrivals behind barricades but many more were marching toward the U.N. Plaza.

Police sealed off the Van Wyck Expressway leading from Kennedy Airport to Manhattan, and a motorcade of 20 cars including three limousines roared into the city with other members of Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization delegation.

Hundreds of New York police were mobilized outside the U.N. headquarters and at least 16 U.N. guards were seen brandishing submachine guns. While two U.S. helicopters, one of them carrying Arafat, hovered overhead, U.S. Coast Guard vessels patrolled the East River alongside the U.N. compound.

Security agents with automatic rifles stepped off the helicopters ahead of Arafat and carefully searched the U.N. area before he landed. Other guards were on patrol across the East River to prevent any long-distance rocket attacks, and police sharpshooters stood guard on nearby skyscrapers.

In a departure statement quoted by the Iraqi News Agency, Arafat said:

"I consider the current session of the United Nations as one of the most critical sessions where the Palestinian question is concerned because it will correct the wrongs committed against the Palestinian people."

Arafat also called on all the nations of the world "to stand by the rights of the Palestinian people who, for the past 26 years, have been living as refugees."

For Israel, Arafat's appearance was a diplomatic defeat. The Jewish state regards Arafat only as leader of the Arab guerrillas who have carried on a bloody campaign against Israel for the past 25 years. Israeli leaders have called the PLO assassins of women and children.

Arafat gained added stature in the Arab world earlier this month when a summit meeting of Arab kings, presidents and sheikhs recognized him and his PLO as the sole representatives of the Palestinians and decided he should rule the West Bank of the Jordan — now occupied by Israel. King Hussein of Jordan formerly had nominal control of the area.

Security precautions already had been severe and U.S. government, New York City and U.N. security forces increased it even more when Russel Kelner, chief of operations of the militant Jewish Defense League, brandished a revolver at a press conference and vowed that Arafat would never leave New York alive.

Kelner was taken into custody Tuesday by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation when he renewed the assassination threat.

There also were heavy security precautions in Israel where authorities feared some act of terrorist violence to highlight Arafat's appearance at the United Nations. Israeli police and soldiers went on special alert in the West Bank, the home of 600,000 Palestinians.

White House Admits It... Recession Is Very Close

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As a congressional struggle over how to deal with the nation's economic problems approaches, the White House says the nation is moving into a recession.

President Ford avoided the word in his last news conference, but his spokesman, Ron Nessen said Tuesday that the economic indicators for October he has seen "will show that this month we are moving into a recession."

Nessen said Gross National Product — a measure of the nation's output — is declining, a significant announcement of further problems. A prolonged coal strike could increase unemployment. Some industries dependent on coal, such as steel and transportation, are cutting production and announcing layoffs.

This could further depress the economy.

Ford scheduled a breakfast meeting today with Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott to discuss the economy and Ford's legislative priority list for the congressional session that starts Nov. 18. Ford is expected to push his 5 per cent surtax for middle and upper level incomes as a way to restrain the economy and balance the budget. His experts oppose the wage and price controls, suggested by Scott's Democratic counterpart, Mike Mansfield.

As Treasury Secretary William Simon said, "controls would only destroy our system."

Both Simon and Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, have said there is a recession. The shorthand definition is a GNP decline for two straight quarters. That was passed last quarter, but administration experts said it was not a true recession because of other factors.

Nessen, basing his forecast on talks with Simon, Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, and presidential assistant William E. Seidman, said industrial production has been slipping with layoffs in the automobile and other industries. "There is evidence" that unemployment — now at 6 per cent — is continuing to increase, and GNP is declining.

"Those are the ones that lead up to the feeling that we are moving into a recession," Nessen said. "Inflation is still a serious problem" and the "ultimate cause" of the recession.

Asked why the White House waited until after the election to use the word "recession" for the first time, Nessen said: "These figures are just beginning to come in. They are not even final..."

Meanwhile, in a related matter an Agriculture Department economist recommends eating lean beef and beans. A supermarket chain spokesman says consumers should pray for better weather.

High food prices are attracting wide attention in Washington. And today the Council on Wage and Price Stability is holding a hearing on another problem—the practice of sticking one price tag on top of another as prices go up.

But Rhoda H. Karparkin, executive director of Consumers Union, told the council "You should focus instead on those causes of the price increases, which can be remedied, and not on the symbols of the increases."

"You should be addressing such issues as planning, non-shelf food pricing policies, lack of competition in the marketplace, wasteful government regulations and wasteful advertising and packaging," she said.

If on-shelf re-pricing was banned, she said, the average shopper would probably save only pennies per week.

Optimism for Quick Coal Settlement

By United Press International

Both sides in the coal talks were optimistic today about a settlement "very, very soon," that would put the nation's 120,000 striking soft-coal miners back on the job in two weeks.

The first layoffs in related industries occurred Tuesday and power companies and auto makers prepared to deal with a severe coal shortage if the strike goes beyond the two week minimum. United Mine Workers contract ratification procedures take between 10 days and two weeks, and the all-day bargaining sessions are aimed at getting a new contract this week.

Tuesday's 15½ hours of talks and caucuses by both sides included a complete industry package of proposals.

It was the first day of the strike at 1,200 mines in 23 states, affecting 70 per cent of the country's coal production.

Talks resumed this morning. "I'm very, very optimistic that we can wrap this thing up very, very soon," said UMW Secretary-Treasurer Harry Patrick when the Tuesday session ended at 1 a.m. today.

Guy Farmer, chief negotiator of the Bituminous Coal Operators of America said: "I think we're now making a superhuman effort to make this agreement," which he said could come "at almost any time."

"We put on the table a complete, total package," Farmer said, "not as a bargaining gambit but as a package that could settle the contract."

Many of the miners, long prepared for a strike, went hunting or played golf. But the strike was grim news for 13,700 U.S. Steel company workers who will be laid off because of the banking of 17 furnaces and operations cutbacks at four other plants.

Republic Steel in Cleveland also said there would be layoffs, and strike-related dismissals were announced at Norfolk and Western, Penn. Central, and Chesapeake and Ohio railroads, which haul coal.

The only report of violence Tuesday came from Norton, Va., where shots were fired at UMW members picketing a nonunion mine. There were no injuries.

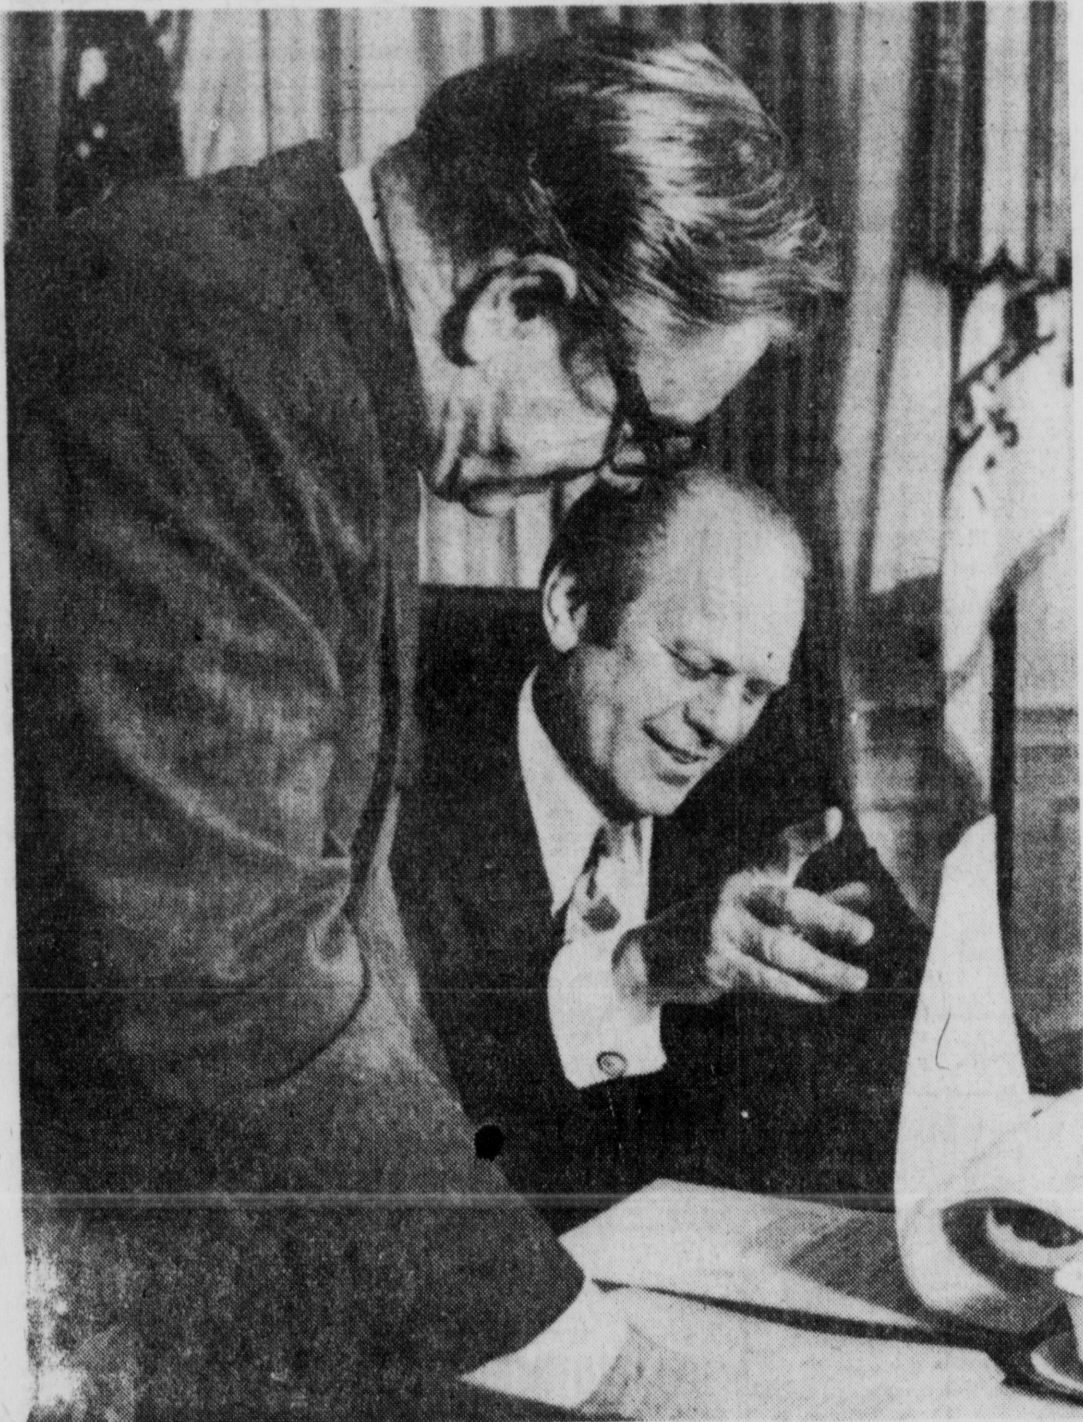

Commerce Secretary Fredrick B. Dent ordered a close watch on soft-coal exports to make sure there is no unnoticed shipment of coal abroad.

Experts estimate a two-week strike would cost $3 billion nationwide in production losses and that a longer one could eventually put a million persons out of work. Unemployment now is at a three-year high of 6 per cent.

After the steel and rail industries, auto companies and public utilities would next feel the effects of the strike. The Tennessee Valley Authority ordered voluntary cutbacks of electricity in seven Southern states: A 50 per cent cutback of street lighting, elimination of outdoor electric decorations and advertisements, reduction of commercial business hours to 60 hours a week at most and reduction of all thermostats to 65 degrees.

The New York power pool said it was planning emergency measures if a long strike deprived upstate coal-fired generators of power. Members of the pool said they had a 60-day coal reserve, but plans were made for power cutbacks to large energy users if conditions warrant.

List of Contributions

Rocky on Gifts . . . 'Generosity'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nelson A. Rockefeller said today his $2.5 million in gifts and loans to political associates were simple acts of generosity, and admitted his role in a book derogatory of a political foe was "a mistake."

Appearing before the Senate Rules Committee to explain four issues that threaten his vice presidential nomination, Rockefeller's prepared statement also revealed that he and his family spent $15.5 million of their own money on his four campaigns for governor of New York and three tries for the GOP presidential nomination.

Rockefeller said he contributed $1 million to other Republicans over the years, including seven senators and a number of House members who will judge his nomination.

Leaders hope to finish the nomination by the end of the current Congress, although doubts were expressed that the House could act that quickly.

The Rules chairman, Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., reopened the hearings after a seven-week lapse. He said there was a "nagging question" whether the money was freely given or aimed at placing "the recipients into what we might call psychological servitude."

In his speech opening the televised hearings, Cannon asked if Rockefeller's vast fortune would create too great a power in the vice presidency. Rockefeller met the question bluntly and emotionally.

"My private wealth is, to say the least, quite great enough to be abused," he replied. "That is, if I were the kind of man to do so and if the American political system permitted wealth to be used uncontrollably."

"But people do not understand America if they do not understand that, here, because of the wisdom of our founding fathers, the power of wealth was tamed."

"Political authority, the only enduring kind of political power, is not for sale in the American political system. You can buy some influence, you can bribe and win sordid games . . . but great political authority in America comes only from the free gift of the people when they vote for you."

"Am I the kind of man who would use his wealth improperly in public office?" Rockefeller asked. "I think the answer is no. I would not behave improperly."

Rockefeller discussed in detail the gifts and loans: a campaign biography derogatory of his 1970 opponent, Arthur Goldberg, payment of $1 million in additional income taxes, and his massive campaign spending.

Rockefeller will be followed by 14 witnesses, including five recipients of the loans or gifts and all those involved in the book, including Goldberg himself and Laurance Rockefeller, his brother.

On the Goldberg book, Rockefeller said: "I made a mistake."

He said an old political associate, lawyer Jack Wells, told him conservative author Victor Lasky was writing a book about the former Supreme Court justice and needed financing. Rockefeller recommended Laurance who eventually paid $60,000 for publishing.

Rockefeller said he never discussed the issue with his brother, but he now regrets making the recommendation and takes full responsibility because he should have "killed the project," which he described as "the most overrated, misrepresented, innocuous, political dud ever perpetrated in a partisan political campaign."

33 Single Member Districts Proposed

Dems Have Reapportion Plan

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

As anticipated, the 12 Democratic members of the Ulster County Legislature have come up with a reapportionment plan, calling for 33 single member districts as an alternative to one proposed last week by the GOP.

Members of the county board are calling for nine districts. Action on a reapportionment plan for the county, in keeping with the one-man, one-vote concept, is expected at the regular monthly meeting of the Legislature Thursday night at 8 p.m. in the County Office Building.

Minority Leader Dr. Gerald P. Gorman (D-City) and Harold Brown, Democratic County chairman in making the announcement today stressed that the Democratic plan had been drawn up by former Minority Leader Roger Mable of Esopus.

and that the proposal features single member districts.

They said they feel that single member districts would provide better representation and a closer relationship between the legislator and his constituents.

They point out that under the new plan election districts combining a legislative district are adjoining and therefore create a closer relationship.

The proposal calls for combining individual election districts so that each legislator would represent approximately 4,280 persons.

As envisioned, the proposed legislative districts would be as follows: There would be four single member districts in Saugerties, each made up of four election districts apiece with between 4,091 and 4,437 persons in each legislative district.

The Town of Ulster would make up two legislative districts and would join with the Town of Kingston to make up another. There would be six legislative districts in the City of Kingston with between 4,050 and 4,597 in each district.

The Town of Esopus would have one district and would combine with Rosendale to form another. Rosendale would also have a single member district of its own.

Lloyd and Marlboro would join to form a district and in addition Marlboro would have one of its own. Woodstock would join with Shandaken and Har-denburgh to create a district and it too would have a district of its own.

single District and Rochester and Denning would form another district. There would be two New Paltz Districts and New Paltz would join with Gardiner to form another. Plattekill and Shawangunk would each be single member districts but Shawangunk would combine with Wawarsing to create another. Wawarsing would also have two districts of its own.

Although the Democratic and Republican plans differ in the total number of districts, both plans call for retention of a 33-member board under which the county presently operates.

Reapportionment is based on the latest official federal decennial census for total county population and has a deviation factor of 6.78 per cent. The allowable deviation, according to law, is 12 per cent.

Urges End of Slaughtering Until Action on Starving

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Farm Organization has asked farmers to stop the protest slaughtering of livestock until Congress acts on a $2 billion program to feed the world's hungry with surplus American food.

NFO President Oren Lee Staley, at a Tuesday news conference, acknowledged that the slaughter and burial of calves in Wisconsin and Minnesota—to protest high production costs and low market prices—brought bad publicity to farmers.

"NFO agrees that this should not happen," Staley said. "Our members do not want to destroy food when people in the world are starving."

"NFO has called on its members and all livestock raisers and feeders to end the destruction of their uneconomical, excess animals until Congress has an opportunity to authorize and direct the Commodity Credit Corp., to spend $2 billion buying excess and uneconomical calves and cows (and other excess animal products) and arranging for distribution of the meat and other products to the starving people of other lands."

Staley said the proposed food surplus program would include purchases of pork and dairy products.

Several congressmen indicated they may introduce legislation for the food surplus purchases when Congress reconvenes next week. The NFO will press for speedy congressional action Staley said.

Staley said that the recent calf slaughters and burials had prompted some television networks, newspapers and magazines to display pictures of the slaughters with photos of starving people in other parts of the world.

But he warned that farmers "cannot grow and give their products away and remain on their farms. Neither can packers run Saturday and Sundays at their own expense slaughtering and freezing the meat for donation abroad," he said.

The obligation to feed the starving lies with everyone in every affluent country, he said.

"The fair and equitable way to end this waste of food in the world where people are dying I've never come across anyone so strong."

Scott wrestled the five-inch knife away from Fred Thomas, 31, of Miami, and called an ambulance. But Thomas broke free, retrieved the knife and plunged it into his chest. Scott rushed up behind Thomas and again grabbed the knife but Thomas died within a few minutes.

Judge Hampers Recovery Of the Vault Funds

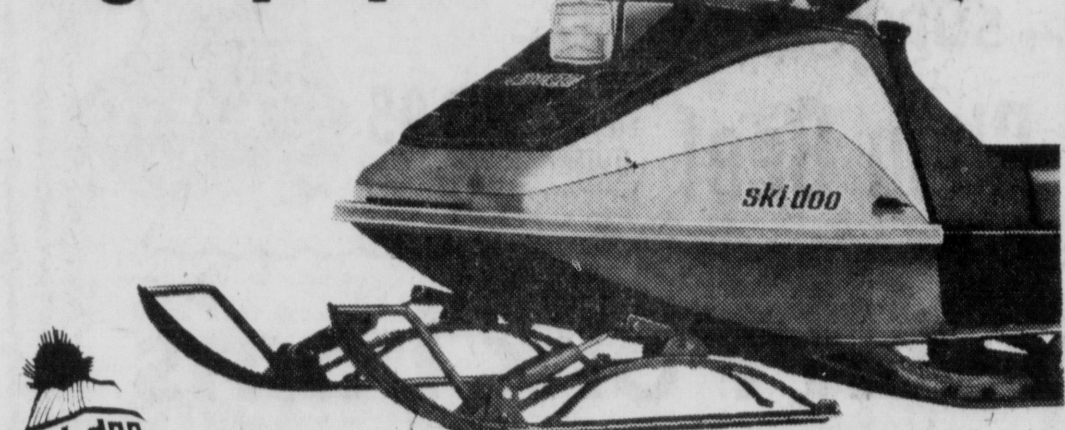

CHICAGO (UPI) — Efforts to Pasquale Charles Marzano and recover at least part of the $4.3 Luigi DiFonzo, arrived on the million taken in the largest island shortly after the burglary heist in American history. They said DiFonzo was being hampered by a judge carrying a briefcase and two in the British West Indies.

The FBI said Tuesday that a judge on Grand Cayman island has refused to let investigators examine records of five island banks. About $1.5 million of the record cash haul from the $4.3 million taken in the Oct. 20 Chicago Armored Express burglary was secreted in five island banks.

In addition to Marzano and DiFonzo, other suspects in custody were Ralph Marrera, who obtained a job as a vault guard and allegedly let the burglars in, Marzano's cousin, said. "He did it about three times. After he did it, he just stood there screaming."

Authorities said the pair, Chicago area.

State GOP Hopeful of Tax Cut

By CLARENCE D. BASSETT
ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Amid speculation that the next state budget may be bloated by inflation to nearly $11 billion, two top Republican state legislators have issued statements calling for tax cuts and saying the Democratic administration of Governor-elect Hugh L. Carey is inheriting a state with "a sound fiscal structure."

The Republicans' optimism about state finances seems to be in contrast to the view of some fiscal experts, who predict an 11 per cent hike in 1974-75 state spending from the current year's $9.6 billion and the probability that advances in revenues will lag behind rising costs.

"The chances for a tax cut next year are excellent," said Warren M. Anderson, leader of the Republican Senate majority to emerge from last week's election.

Sen. John J. Marchi, chair of the Senate Finance Committee, said Carey person- larger exemptions would mean a tax cut of about $50 million. New York State residents for a tax increase in 1975."

Anderson said he would propose elimination of the 2½ per cent surcharge on state income taxes—which was suspended this year—and even offer legislation to increase from $650 to $750 the income tax exemption for persons with incomes under $10,000.

The surcharge, he estimated, involves $85 million and the now, it inherits a sound fiscal

Protection on Tocks Island By Army Engineer Corps

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — An Army Corps of Engineers study shows that the rural region surrounding Tocks Island on the Delaware will become an urbanized area by the 1990's if the controversial dam is built on the river.

The most significant social and economic changes would transform the counties of Sussex and Warren in New Jersey and Monro and Pike in Pennsylvania, the study showed. The dam would also stimulate the growth of Northampton and Wayne counties in Pennsylvania and Sullivan in New York.

A corps spokesman said the study, released Tuesday, was prepared last summer as a supplement to an environmental impact statement for the U.S. Council on Environmental Quality.

The report on the study would be drawn to the recreational facilities along the proposed 37-mile Tocks Island lake, which the corps envisions chiefly as a flood control project.

Using data compiled by the Tocks Island Regional Advisory Council, which represents the local governments in the area, the corps estimated the region would need 40 to 80 new restaurants and 50 to 90 new hotels and motels to accommodate the visitors.

The study also forecast increases in population, property values, jobs, wages and tax revenues in the seven-county area.

structure, and, in the absence of a catastrophe, need propose no new taxes if it practices prudence and economy and stays within the limits of necessary programs already established" Marchi said.

Fiscal experts are projecting that state expenses led by a $300 million hike in education aid and the reopening of pay agreements with the 120,000-member Civil Service Employees Association, will approach or top the $11 billion mark. At the same time that inflation boosts state costs, the experts say income and user taxes, the two main sources of state income, will not keep pace.

Anderson, meeting with reporters at the Capitol, offered some clues to the role Senate Republicans will play in dealings with the Democratic Assembly majority and a Democratic governor.

"We are going to advance our own program and we're going to pass our own programs," said Anderson, the only top GOP leader from 16 years of Republican dominance of state government to emerge from the election still in a position of power.

He said the GOP would offer proposals dealing with rising health care costs housing and education aid.

Commenting on Gov. Malcolm Wilson's defeat, Anderson said, "there were forces afoot in this campaign that transcended New York State boundaries." He said Wilson waged "a good, hard campaign" but characterized 1974 as "a very, very difficult year to run on the Republican ticket for statewide office."

Meatless Wednesday

Despite Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz's scornful rejection of the idea of going without meat to make more grain available for the world's hungry, the concept is sound. It makes practical sense. It would be a way of implementing the compassion many, if not all, Americans feel for hundreds of millions whose overriding daily concern is enough food for survival.

One difficulty presents itself: though many may agree with the idea in a general way, few are inclined to undertake this modest act of self-sacrifice on their own. What the situation requires is a program, or programs, to encourage participation by those who want to help in this way.

Just such a program has been initiated by Bishop Paul Moore Jr. in the Episcopal Diocese of New York, which encompasses 88,000 of the faithful in a 10-county area. In a pastoral letter Bishop Moore asked his constituents to observe "meatless Wednesday" for the duration of the world hunger crisis, and to contribute the money thus saved to the Presiding Bishop's Fund for World Relief.

Thus Episcopalians in the New York area have the machinery whereby they may express their concern in a practical way. Variations on this simple program could be set up throughout the country — not only under church auspices, but by any concerned group. A widespread undertaking of this kind in our affluent country could make a big difference for millions of the world's hungry — for some of them, perhaps, the difference between life and death.

Advice on Science

One very significant plus mark for the Ford administration is its evident interest in getting adequate advice on science and technology. This is in marked contrast to the attitude within the Nixon administration.

Under President Nixon there was a decline in support for basic research, and in 1973 he went so far as to abolish the White House Office of Science and Technology and eliminated the office of science advisor then held by Dr. Edward E. David Jr. The advisory function was transferred to the director of the National Science Foundation, but Nixon reportedly did not confer with him and only saw him on ceremonial occasions.

This was a source of anxiety within the scientific community, which is validly interested in having its views given the hearing they deserve at the highest decision-making level. Things appear to be much better in this regard now. The NSF director, Dr. H. Guyford Stever, has reportedly had comprehensive discussions of national science policy with President Ford.

There is room for further improvement. It is good to learn that the administration has this in mind, and is considering proposals designed to provide more systematic input from scientists.

Some are arguing for expansion of the National Science Foundation director's advisory role; some would establish a new council for science and technology comparable to the Council of Economic Advisors. Other plans also have been suggested. The important thing is that, whichever idea is adopted, there be full presentation of varying viewpoints on scientific issues.

WORLD FOOD CONFERENCE delegates dine in fancy Rome restaurants. Nothing like good food to stimulate intensive discussion of subsistence diets.

RESIGNING, Henry E. Petersen says, "If you can't trust the President of the United States you are in trouble." Something we all learned the hard way.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — In the first such case since the late Adam Clayton Powell was unseated in 1967, a certified Congressman may be barred from the House.

He is George Hansen, an Idaho Republican, who served two terms in the House during the mid-60s and has been elected again to his old seat.

Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, the formidable House Administration chairman, will ask Hansen to stand aside until criminal charges against him are resolved.

This means he won't be sworn in with his colleagues next January. If the charges against him stand up, he may never be permitted to take his seat.

Federal auditors have turned up at least 30 apparent violations of the campaign laws by Hansen. These include the acceptance of 21 illegal corporate checks, the filing of late and inaccurate disclosure reports, the use of six secret cash accounts for his campaign through an unreported committee.

So serious are the charges that Hays has written two letters to the Justice Department about the case. His committee wrote the campaign law and investigated the Hansen Campaign.

Yet, Justice Department sources tell us that, despite overwhelming evidence, the federal prosecutors have no plans to act on the case. Indeed, the Hansen case, although the most serious, isn't the only one which the Justice Department is sitting on.

Under the campaign spending law, the clerk of the House and the Secretary of the Senate are supposed to refer suspected violations to the Justice Department.

When the law was enacted in 1971, there was skepticism that the House Clerk and Senate Secretary, who are under the control of Congress, would ever be able to police Congress.

In fact, they have done a scrupulous, nonpartisan job of administering the law. More than 10,000 alleged violations, including about 1,900 this year, have been sent to the Justice Department for action.

Yet, with the exception of cases developed by the special Watergate prosecutors, the Justice Department has brought only seven cases to trial. Another 30 to 40 prosecutions have been pressed in recent years under another 1925 law. This amounts to massive failure to enforce the campaign laws.

FOOTNOTE: We were unable to reach Hansen, but a spokesman declined to comment on the case. He said Hansen expected to be sworn in along with the rest of the House in January.

A Justice Department spokesman emphasized that most of the alleged violations submitted for prosecution were minor infractions, such as late or incomplete filings. Most of these errors, he said, have been cleared up when the department asked for an explanation. "We're doing one hell of a good job enforcing the law," he insisted.

MISMANAGED ECONOMY? President Ford's insistence that inflation is the nation's No. 1 problem, in the opinion of some of his own economic advisors, is pushing the country into a dangerous recession.

These advisors, who for obvious reasons have asked not to be identified, have come to the regretful conclusion that the President is mismanaging the economy.

The confusion inside the White House over how to cope with economic problems, they tell us, is worse than it was during the last days of President Nixon. They cite these developments:

— Several weeks ago, the President's economic advisors delivered a confidential forecast to him that unemployment would hit 7 per cent this year — a sure sign of recession. Yet this wasn't even taken into account by the Economic Policy Board which, under presidential prodding, went ahead with its strategy to fight inflation.

— While the President is calling upon Americans to spend less in order to curb inflation, they are already spending far less than most industries would like. New car sales are down drastically. The housing industry is paralyzed. Merchants across the country are reporting drops in their sales charts.

— The economic crunch has shaken the foundations of several banks. A few more bank failures could cause a run on banks reminiscent of the Great Depression, when depositors lined up for blocks to withdraw their precious life savings.

— Ford's economic policies are tilted toward big business. At a secret White House session, one consultant confronted the President bluntly: "Mr. President, you've asked us to reduce waste by 5 per cent, reduce driving by 5 per cent, and increase taxes by 5 per cent. Could we ask the big oil companies to reduce their profits by 5 per cent?" This suggestion was rejected.

There is one hope. President Ford as a former Michigan Congressman is close to the auto tycoons. They desperately want Americans to spend more, not less. The nation's No. 1 problem, they are pleading, is not inflation but recession.

When the auto tycoons speak, Ford out of habit listens. If the economy continues to weaken, he may belatedly take their advice.

Ford and Archbishop

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — President Ford tried desperately hard last month to subdue strident Greek-Americans lobbying against U.S. aid to Turkey by warning their spiritual leader, in bluntly undiplomatic language, of NATO's alarming deterioration in the Mediterranean.

In a 45-minute meeting with Archbishop Iakovos in the Oval Office Oct. 7, the president painted growing Communist influence in southern Europe and asked him to support continued military aid to Turkey. But the Archbishop, leader of 3 million Greek Orthodox communicants in North and South America, replied by pleading with Mr. Ford to issue a statement revealing some Turkish concession on Cyprus.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger then said to Greek officials had urged him to delay any such statement until after the Nov. 17 Greek elections — a claim flatly denied to us by those Greek officials.

The Oct. 7 meeting was summarized by Iakovos in a memorandum based on notes taken by his aide. Copies of that memo have found their way to the Greek government in Athens and Democratic Congressmen in Washington, creating new U.S.-Greek problems and perhaps inadvertently making possible leftist gains in the Greek elections which Mr. Ford seeks to avoid.

Trying urgently to alert the Archbishop to dangers in the Mediterranean, Mr. Ford appraised southern Europe in language usually reserved for intimate aides. According to the Iakovos memorandum (translated from the Greek), Mr. Ford said:

"Only we can help the Greeks because only we are in a position to exercise pressure on Turkey. I would like to tell you that we want and we must keep Greece as our friend. Don't you see the situation in the Mediterranean? Yesterday Portugal, Italy today, and the day after tomorrow possibly Spain, will put us face to face with the strong presence of Communism in an area which up to some time ago we were controlling with our allies in NATO."

The precise accuracy of those words could not be authenticated. But we established absolutely that Mr. Ford referred to a "pretty dismal picture" in the Mediterranean, adjacent to the Mideast "tinder-box."

The Archbishop, according to those present, pleaded with the President for help to calm Greek-Americans. He complained that his communicants no longer listened to him and that the past few months had been the first unhappy period during 15 years as archbishop. His own memo has him requesting a presidential statement on

Cyprus to help in "pacifying my flock."

Kissinger replied he had been asked by Greek coalition government leaders — Prime Minister Constantine Caramanlis (conservative) and Foreign Minister George Mavros (liberal) — not to make any announcement before the elections that would portray the U.S. as Greece's patron.

Both of them, Messrs. Mavros and Caramanlis, do not want us to make any announcement before the elections even if we achieve favorable concessions for Greece on the part of Turkey," the Iakovos memo quotes Kissinger. "Obviously, Messrs. Caramanlis and Mavros are afraid of being accused as friends of America and then there is fear of losing the elections."

Specifically, the memorandum dispatched to Caramanlis expresses U.S. fear that premature statements could bring election gains by leftist leader Andreas Papandreu. "I do repeat that we want to help Greece and particularly Mr. Caramanlis because according to our information the movement around Papandreu is strong and disturbing," it quotes Kissinger. "We do not wish at all to see Papandreu governing Greece because this would mean subjecting Greece to Communist power."

While generally confirming the memorandum, Iakovos denied to us that Papandreu's name was mentioned. Administration sources neither confirm nor deny it but do report Kissinger as expressing at the meeting his interest in preventing a left or Communist Greek government.

What may help the Greek left inadvertently is the Archbishop's report of Caramanlis and Mavros making backstage deals with Washington. Mavros, reached by telephone in Athens, told us the reported Kissinger statement "is absolutely untrue." An aide to Caramanlis told us from Athens the Prime Minister called it "entirely untrue."

The Archbishop's memorandum concludes with this critique of Mr. Ford: "I think he is a good man of good intentions but too weak to take a position by himself."

Conversely, administration officials, expecting a firebrand in Iakovos, found him unimpressive and insecure.

Caramanlis has had the Archbishop's report for weeks (though Iakovos told us he did not send the Prime Minister a copy). Furthermore, Elias Demetriopoulos, the Washington-based Greek who lobbied hard against Turkish aid, last week briefed the House Foreign Affairs Committee staff on the memorandum. Democratic Congressmen critical of Ford's policies will soon be briefed themselves. This widening distribution of private remarks could influence the Greek election, enlarging dangers in the strategic Mediterranean described so graphically by the President to the Archbishop.

Biggest Guzzle of Them All

The country is in urgent need of a Federal Bureau of Resources. Its function should be to estimate how much and what is being done with our coal, gold, zinc, copper, oil, forestry, water, silver, grain, fisheries etc. At this moment we are paying $69,300,000 a day for oil alone.

No one in government foresaw the onset of oil black-mail, which started a year ago. It was not until the Arabs and Venezuelans jacked the price of a 42-gallon barrel of oil from $2 to $11 on a take-it-or-leave-it basis that anyone realized that our pumps were parched.

We took it. Even our electricity runs on oil. Two detailed studies of the continuing crisis — "A Time to Choose," by the Ford Foundation, and "Project Independence Blueprint," a 980-page book compiled by the Federal Energy Administration — are in print and will be read by few.

To reduce both to a capsule, they say hopefully that by 1985 — if we conserve oil products and develop fresh sources of oil in Alaska and blue water wells — the U.S. will cut its dependence on the Arabs from 6,300,000 barrels a day to 3,500,000 barrels. In 11 years, that is.

Ironically, the U.S. is still the largest producer of oil, but our living standards are so high that we must pay $25 billion extra per year to import oil. In addition, our use of oil grows at the rate of 0.45 per cent per year. By 1985, we will be using 49.5 per cent more oil than today.

The Arab nations, nomadic and weak militarily, might, if pressed, risk war by hiking the price to $22 a barrel. All it proves is that the world, overnight, has changed from gold as a basic currency to oil.

A Canadian who lives on the African side of the Straights of Gibraltar, Noel Mostert, explores the subject on a more fundamental level. His first book is called "Super-ship" (Knopf). His findings, I feel, would frighten anyone. The big tankers which carry the oil across the seas number only 388. Without them, breasting wind and wave, the industry of the world would come to a gringing, rusty halt. In the case of Japan, which imports over 90 per cent of its oil, the nation would die.

The U.S., with its own production oil, plus imports from Canada and South America, would exist at two-thirds its current level of affluence and health. There are 3,000 smaller tankers, but none of them can carry enough on an 11,000 miles, one-way trip around the Cape of Good Hope to make a difference.

Europe imports 60 per cent of its oil. Australia buys 60 per cent. The U.S. begs and gulps 34 per cent more than it can produce. When the Arabs refused to sell oil to Japan because their government favored Israel, the Japanese fell to their knees and became pro-Arab. This blackmail can be applied anywhere.

In the U.S., the gigantic oil companies, which are permitted huge oil-depletion tax writeoffs, did not invest their heavy profits in new oil exploration or even in sufficient new refineries. They bought abroad. We paid. The conglomerates, as recently as 1970, did not see that they had become dependent upon the slow-witted, long-nosed sheiks.

The world average of oil consumption per person per year is 2,500 pounds of crude. Every American needs 14,800 pounds. We are out of touch with reality.

At the end of World War I, the biggest tankers were 18,000 deadweight tons. In 1956, the guzzling of oil had grown so much that tankers of 45,000 tons were built. Twelve years later, the Japanese built six, each of 326,000 tons. The biggest passenger liner in the world, the "Queen Elizabeth," was only 82,000 tons.

At the yards at Yokohama, tankers of 550,000 tons are being welded. Loaded with oil, their keels will be 91 feet below the waterline. No harbor in America can dock such a ship, much less siphon oil from it. Such a vessel is one-fifth of a mile long, moves at 15 knots, and requires two and a half months to leave New York in ballast, reach Abadan at the top of the Persian Gulf, fill up, and return.

They require 18 hours to load, 18 to unload. Some of the crews have not been off the steel eggshells for a year. Owners count on a tanker being at sea 340 days out of 365. Running costs are $7,000 a day, not counting depreciation.

In storms or shoals, they are more dangerous than dynamite. Seven years ago, when the 120,000-ton "Torrey Canyon" split in half trying to take a shortcut to Liverpool to make the tide, the oil slick ruined British beaches and spread over 200 miles long.

We need a Bureau of Resources, not a Federal Energy Administration, such as we have. The FEA waits until catastrophe strikes, then works up a feasibility study to show how many years it will take to survive it. Somebody is going to have to mind the store. The whole store...

Thanks from Dow

Editor, The Freeman:

My heartfelt thanks are due to the very loyal group of Democrats and Republicans who supported me in my recent campaign for Congress, and who worked so hard and well. Likewise, my thanks go out to the thousands of people who voted for me on this last election, demonstrating their confidence in what I tried to represent.

In spite of the unemployment hereabout, and the inflation, high property taxes, the uncertainty about energy, and Watergate, the majority of our voters are not sufficiently shaken to sweep out of office representatives of the party now in power. They are still hopeful for middle-of-the-road solutions. They are not yet ready to rely on a candidate like myself who would work for positive changes in the economic and social sphere.

The statistics of the election indicate that I held the same percentage of the vote in 1974 as in 1972, while many thousands of Conservatives in 1974 joined the Republicans to vote for the incumbent congressman. This would emphasize again, the strong hold that a conservative stance, rather than progressive solutions, has on the electorate in this area.

American institutions are not meeting the new problems, because they are not changing fast enough. People ought to vote for change. When there is no change, then the whole structure becomes more antiquated and runs the risk of collapsing.

Those who know this to be true have the duty to rise and speak again for changes, improvements and progress in the way affairs are conducted in our U.S.A. I am going to keep on at this task.

Liked Mason Editorial

Editor, The Freeman:

You are to be commended on your Editorial endorsement of Senator Ed Mason for he is the best man we have ever had in Albany. He is independent, he uses common sense, and he stands up for the people — nobody controls Mason. Over the years he has been in the Legislature we have heard many say "We only wish there were more men like Mason." He decides what is right and he sticks to it.

He has fought against the high taxes and the big spending by Rockefeller in Albany, and he has been right all along. Mason has had the courage to stand up for his convictions, if we only had more men like him our country would not be in the terrible condition it is today. I meet a lot of people, both Democrats and Republicans support him, he didn't need any polls — the elections showed it. The people supported him because they recognize his rare qualities — there's not many men like him in politics today and we hope he keeps in there pitching for a long time to come. The Freeman Editorial was just great.

Yours for a Better & Stronger America.

Very truly yours,

Rescue Squad Praise

Editor, The Freeman:

While there is so much violence, crime and hatred taking place in the world today, I would appreciate space to publicly give credit and praise to those who so willingly and generously give of their time and a helping hand to others in need.

Among those are a dedicated group — The Kerhonkson-Accord First Aid and Rescue Squad — both those who are with the ambulance and the other members who rush to aid the unfortunates.

Recently, I became one of the unfortunates. Abe and I are deeply grateful for the swift, kind, thoughtful and gentle assistance of those transporting me to the hospital, as well as the other members who were so helpful at the house. Also to the Reverend Stedje, our wonderful friends, neighbors and relatives for their phone calls, house calls, cards and well wishes for the delicious foods brought to us and for the many other kindnesses shown us we are very thankful.

Most Sincerely,

Women's Rights

Editor, The Freeman:

I am very happy and thankful to be a woman. I believe God created men and women equal but — Distinctly Different. I feel certain that there are many readers who will agree with me in that respect. I value highly my rights as a woman under the United States and New York State Constitutions.

In very recent months I became aware of a movement that, if finalized, will nullify every right I now enjoy as a woman. It is a proposed amendment to the U.S. Constitution and the constitutions of all 50 states, introduced under the guise of equal rights.

Specifically, it touts equal pay for equal work, for no one would disagree with that premise. The Equal Pay Act of 1963, Civil Rights Act of 1964 and Equal Opportunity Act of 1972 all adequately cover this former inequity. For too long the average citizen, including myself, was not aware of his rights under these laws, and the same is probably true today.

Every right women now have, and I repeat every, will be declared illegal if it pertains only to women — with no exceptions! It will happen right here in our New York State as early as next year if enough men and women do not become concerned and involved. This proposed amendment attempts to create equality through sameness. Men and women will be treated exactly alike in all areas of life, with no exceptions, working toward a "neuter society". If you feel as I do, that women's rights are to be cherished and freedoms valued, then find out why seven states have already rescinded or defeated this amendment. Those states discovered that they were compelled to change every law that pertained to only one sex, and make each of those laws a unisex law. Can you blame them for rescinding?

Will you join with countless other alerted women across the state and nation and fight for your rights? One last thought — while under study in the judiciary committee the "Hayden Modification" was attached to the proposed amendment, safeguarding the rights women already had. Before it left that committee for congressional vote, the safeguard was struck out because of pressure from the originators of the amendment. Can you fathom their intentions? Let us keep this "One Nation Under God, With Liberty and Justice for All."

There is far too much of this subject to include in one letter. I look forward to letters in response and, hopefully, direct contact if you will help.

Sincerely,

Blackout Response

Editor, The Freeman:

On election eve I attended the "blackout" bonfire in Ellenville organized in response to the call by Concerned Consumers for residents to turn out the lights from 8 to 10 p.m. to protest the high cost of electricity.

Unfortunately, a heavy rain prematurely dampened the lively spirit of a good-sized crowd of 200 people and cut short the activities.

While driving home at about 9 p.m. along Route 209 and four miles beyond Kerhonkson I was astonished at the unusual number of houses that were dark or dimly lit by candles; well over half the homes were dark where they were usually brightly illuminated.

Judging from this sample it is clear that many thousands of people in the area responded to the call for a blackout to dramatically protest zooming electric rates.

Sincerely,

Hearts on Greater Victory

Editor, The Freeman:

It is my hope that my brothers and sisters in Jesus Christ the Lord be not vexed nor discouraged by the seeming failure of justice.

Those of us who had hope in the candidates upholding the compassion and union with all value of human life, must not be disheartened by their defeat eyes straight ahead during the in last week's election. Nor wait is our real hope; the must we be dispirited by any second coming will be the clergy who failed to support them with vigor and heart; nor by the uninformed; nor by the apathetic.

We must keep our hearts on the greater victory — the second coming of our Savior. We must remember and believe in His compassion on all sinners. We must pray for the conversion of sinners, for we are all included in one degree or another.

And we must wait. Our in the candidates upholding the compassion and union with all value of human life, must not be disheartened by their defeat eyes straight ahead during the in last week's election. Nor wait is our real hope; the must we be dispirited by any second coming will be the clergy who failed to support them with vigor and heart; nor by the uninformed; nor by the apathetic.

To Him be the glory.
Thank you.

State Police Statistics

HURLEY State police forces in Ulster County made 97 felony arrests and 137 misdemeanor arrests and investigated 1,118 complaints during the month of October, according to monthly statistics released today by Lt. Stanley M. Kowalik, Zone Commander, Zone 3 of Troop F.

A total of 998 vehicle and traffic arrests and 47 arrests for driving while intoxicated were made by troopers during the 31-day period. Speed computer and radar arrests during the month totaled 341, an increase from 255 during the month of September. Uniform troopers patrolled a total of 84,724 miles during the month of October.

Jerome Gabell, 34, whose name became widely known in the Ulster County area during August when he was hired on the staff at the Ulster County Jail while a fugitive from justice, is now the object of a Florida search after escaping from custody there Tuesday night. Dade County, Fla., authorities explained today that Gabell, who was already wanted in New Jersey and Florida on various charges, was picked up Monday night in Miami. Police found Gabell while investigating a stolen property case involving some $300,000 in stolen items. According to an officer for the Dade County Public Safety Department, Gabell was removed from jail Tuesday night to aid officers in their investigation. While in a restaurant, Gabell was allowed to go unattended into a bathroom and he slipped off into the night.

Dutchess Future Conference Set

POUGHKEEPSIE Formal announcement of the Third Conference on the Future of Dutchess County will be sent to citizens known to have an interest in community affairs. The Conference, Nov. 16 at Dutchess Community College, is open to the public and anyone interested is welcome. This year's program "The Anatomy of Dutchess County" will begin with a 9 a.m. registration in Falcon Hall.

Special Week

MILLBROOK More than 100 interested secondary school students will be welcomed to the Bennett College campus Nov. 15 for the annual pre-freshman week. Students from as far away as California and as near as Millbrook will be looking over the campus and programs.

Following welcoming by President William Nystrom Friday night, students will attend the Performing Arts Production "The Eiffel Tower Wedding Party." On Saturday, workshops have been planned in various departments, with faculty members in charge. The Bennett College Riding Center will feature the Intercollegiate Horse Show. The Bennett Swans, a choral group will give a performance.

Fashion Design students will give a fashion show and retail modeling workshop Saturday evening. Anyone interested in learning more about Bennett through the weekend may contact the Admissions Office.

The program will feature an illustrated analysis of land in Dutchess County as willed by nature, as used by man, and as a resource for county development. In addition, a four-member panel of specialists experienced in planning and managing land development in other areas will discuss techniques for guiding change in the years ahead.

The Future of Dutchess County Conference is an annual affair sponsored by the Dutchess County government through the Department of Planning and the Dutchess County Planning Board.

The program is funded by grants from the McCann Foundation, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, and the New York State Office of Planning Services. Co-operating sponsors include Pattern for Progress, Inc., and The Cary Arboretum.

Panel presentations will be made by Dr. Thomas Elias as moderator, assistant director of The Cary Arboretum in Millbrook; E. M. Risse, director of Planning and Design for R. P. Browne Associates in Columbia, Md.; Thomas H. Pierce, director of Land Management for the Tri-County Conservancy of the Brandywine in Pennsylvania; and James E. Ashton, Cooperative Extension Specialist in Community Resource Development for Southeastern New York.

BARBARA WARD

... British economist

Economist Issues Warning

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The world faces widespread starvation in this decade unless all nations act together to meet the crisis, British economist Barbara Ward said Monday.

"I will be a continuing crisis but not an unmanageable crisis if we do the right thing, Miss Ward said. 'We have to start exactly where we are, which is in grave trouble.'

Miss Ward called for a wage-price freeze and a large grain transfer this winter to poor countries to help offset inflation and hunger. She said we must "cut our gross waste and 'avoid waste, recycle — let nothing go to waste."

Miss Ward, speaking at a symposium on energy, said in the last generation the world enjoyed a balanced economy of supply and demand. She said there was a seemingly limitless supply of cheap energy during a period of favorable weather that lead to heavy agricultural production.

But the demand is now said, and this will be aggravated during the next decade by:

—A possible change in the climate, a "cooling down, that would have a critical effect on agriculture, and limiting the normal growth season.

—A "sudden, violent" change in the supplies of cheap energy.

—The prospect of desperate poverty, disease and starvation among the world's poorest peoples, and the possibility of a "mega-crisis and mega-death."

Miss Ward, also known as Lady Jackson, said a wage-price freeze could slow inflation and a large grain transfer would head off mass starvation in the immediate future.

'Hairy Dig' Uncovers Prehistoric Skull

SANDY, Utah (UPI) — University of Utah paleontologists reached the end of their hairy mammoth dig in the backyard of an apartment house and found their hoped-for almost completely destroyed by excavation of the two-story building.

But that disappointment was balanced by the final discovery of a huge molar from the prehistoric beast. "The biggest plume was at the end of the trail," said Dr. James H. Madsen Jr. after his team of researchers filled in the excavation.

"The tooth weighs about six pounds and was the last thing we found Monday. We had also uncovered skull and tusk fragments, but we found positive evidence the skull proper and tusks were spoiled by landscaping and excavation for the apartment. Madsen said.

"Soil profiles at the end of our dig showed the building construction had damaged the skull. But, still we recovered about 60 intact bones, roughly one-fourth of the entire skeleton."

Madsen called the eight days of work one of the major finds in the state. The researchers unearthed about 20 ribs, a dozen vertebrae, both shoulder blades, the pelvis, the left femur and several bones from the mammoth's left foot.

The bones have been moved to the university's Utah Museum of Natural History. There they will be cleaned, aged by carbon-14 dating, and prepared for an exhibit.

"The tooth was the conclusive evidence this was a mammoth and not his cousin, the mastodon. Also, judging from the size and length of the femur, we surmise the animal to be a bull."

"The find was significant enough to keep us interested, but wouldn't have believed the public interest we had. About 10,000 people visited the site during our digging."

Madsen estimates the animal, which roamed North America between 40,000-10,000 B.C., weighed about seven tons and stood 10 feet high at the shoulder.

The pelvis of the animal was uncovered Oct. 31 by the apartment manager while he was digging a sprinkler system ditch. Madsen's team began its work Nov. 4.

"The excavation was extremely easy in the sandy soil here. Were only sorry that the construction workers didn't call us in when they found bones from the skull."

Church Members Burn Televisions

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (UPI) — A group of strict fundamentalist church members "have burned their television sets to protest televised violence and sex that they said poisoned their children's minds."

"Now we'll all do more reading and take part in family devotions," said Mrs. Hank Dodson.

She and fourteen members of the Church of the Nazarene in suburban Pennfield Twp. tossed their sets into a roaring bonfire Sunday night in the church parking lot.

Mrs. Dodson said her 8-year-old Jimmy would "stand in front of the mirror and fight with himself and act crazy" after watching his favorite television show, "The Six Million Dollar Man."

She said Jimmy was upset that he will no longer be able to watch the show, "but he obeys his parents."

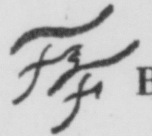

The protest burning was organized by evangelist Paul Wilde, who spoke at the church last week on the evils of television.

"The programs were poisoning our children's minds," said Mary Lou Bax, who chucked her $600 color television set into the flames.

"I had to censor everything my sons watched," she said. "The last show I heard the word 'damn'."

One church member didn't wait for the bonfire. He blew out the picture tube of his set with a shotgun.

New Toyota Corollas Arrive

Sid Musiker (L) president of Musiker Toyota Inc., East Chester Street Bypass, and his sales staff look over a new arrival — the 1975 Toyota Corollas. Joining President Musiker are David and Jeff Musiker and Dennis Leone. The new arrival also corresponds with the fourth anniversary of the Musiker Toyota agency. The event will be marked by a full week of champagne and refreshments from Nov. 18-22. The 1975 Corollas, completely redesigned inside and out, have more head and leg room in the six styling economy cars including the one shown. Standard equipment on the 1975 Corolla, which recorded 33-MPG during EPA highway testing, includes reclining front bucket seats, electric rear-window defogger, locking gas cap, transistorized ignition and power front disc brakes. ## AIEE Chapter Schedules Seminar in Poughkeepsie

POUGHKEEPSIE: The Mid-Hudson Chapter of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers has announced plans to hold a one-day seminar entitled Using ESP in Problem Solving and Decision Making. The event, which will be open to the public, is slated for Saturday, Dec. 7 at the Cumeo Restaurant in Poughkeepsie.

Moderators will be Dr. John Mihalasky with E. Douglas Dean from Newark College of Engineering. They are co-authors of the new book Executive ESP published by Prentice Hall.

For more than a decade Mihalasky and Dean have been engaged in scientific research and controlled experiments for the purpose of finding a way to identify individuals with precognitive (ESP) ability.

They have further pursued their findings by developing methods for selecting individuals with business and industry. A portion of the seminar will be devoted to testing the attendees for their precognitive ability. Methods for developing and enhancing ESP abilities will also be presented.

Dr. Mihalasky and Mr. Dean have achieved national and international recognition for their achievements. Accounts of their work have appeared in the Journals of the Society for Psychophysiological Research, the Parapsychological Association, and in the International Journal of Neuropsychiatry. Popular articles have appeared in the New York Times, Business Week, Think Magazine, Nation's Business, Mechanical Engineering and the Advanced Management Journal. The following are some opinions of their book, Executive ESP:

"... a valid and logical link between ESP and decision-making exists. That alone may be one of the most important management breakthroughs in years."

Yamaha Reports Big Sales Increase

BUENA PARK, Calif. A major snowmobile manufacturer is reporting increased sales for the early season. The latest survey of Yamaha dealers shows retail sales up 35 per cent over this same period last year.

Mel Callaway, vice president of the company's snowmobile division, said that "the industry looks to be in better shape this year than it has for the two previous seasons. Snowmobile buyers began shopping in July and August with really good action in September."

The company is already sold out of half of the models they had for sale to the dealers this season. Yamaha also reports that two thirds of their total inventory is in the hands of their dealers. Inventory at the dealer level is also down 12 per cent from what it was last year at this time.

Callaway also said, "this information comes at a crucial time as the company has just begun extensive testing in Alaska on the development of new models to be introduced in 1976 and 77. We have always believed that snowmobiles will continue to be an important factor in the continued growth of the company. These indications show us that our long range plans for snowmobiles is right on target. We are looking for a total sell-out this year, giving us the green light for a complete new model line to be introduced this spring." The company's corporate offices are located in Buena Park, Calif.

Inflation Lightly Dusts Christmas Card Harvest

NEW YORK The 1974 Christmas card crop has been lightly dusted by inflation, a welcome from double-digit increases that have beset other products.

Since many publishers set their prices many months before Christmas cards reach the retail counters, only the sharply prescient would have divined the extraordinary cost increases in paper, ink and other raw materials that were to occur.

So, according to the American Artists Group's annual survey, this year's Christmas cards may be an authentic bargain for shoppers before realistic adjustments are made for 1975.

Early sales indicate total Christmas card volume will probably reach prior year's figures. This is easy to understand when one considers America's highly mobile society although it's been somewhat slowed this year. Other than a phone call which is more expensive, there is no more personal or convenient way of keeping in touch with distant friends during the holidays than the ubiquitous Christmas card.

Trends in taste and style in this year's Christmas cards show no marked change. According to Martin Dash, marketing director of the American Artists Group, nostalgia still runs strong and deep and religious greetings are comfortably perched on its modest plateau. The graphic look has a small but earnest audience while art deco has barely made inroads. Subtle changes abound but no startling revolution in color or paper has swept the field.

Looking more closely at some of the existing trends, religious greetings still represent about 22 per cent of all Christmas cards sold. In the light of recent reports that church attendance is down while the sale of Bibles remains unabated, religious Christmas cards appear to have developed a faithful following. Madonna and Child is still the most popular reverent subject while the flight to Egypt and the approach to Bethlehem follow close behind. Medievalist W. T. Mars' sensitive painting of Herod's wrath illustrates this popular trend. The Three Kings as a subject seems to have lost some of its strength.

Serenity and tranquility epitomize the mood of nostalgia that is the strongest Christmas card trend. Not merely a déjà vu representation of some old Currier & Ives prints, the new designs reflect a reinterpretation of the American heritage by contemporary artists. For instance Robert Vickrey whose paintings hang in the Whitney Museum of Art sensitively portrays the universality and simplicity of a child's delight in fresh snow on the farm.

The American Artists Group, located at 200 Varick Street, New York City, in presenting an enlarged portfolio of fine art Christmas cards for 1974, encourages Americans in their quest to reaffirm their common concerns as individuals, as families and as fellow citizens.

Troubled Bridge Over Little Water

A school bus from the Clay County Community schools in Bowling Green, Ind., stops to let children sprint across an old one-line bridge, built in 1894, before the bus crosses the tiny bridge, empty. Eighteen youngsters ride the bus, and must get off each time, regardless of weather. School officials say the rustic bridge is probably safe, but they don't want to take any chances. Clay County officials have had to reroute 30 of the school's 47 bus routes to avoid other questionable bridges in the area. (UPI)

Canal History Session

KINGSTON

The Hudson Valley Historical Collectors Club will hear D&H Canal History at its regular meeting, 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 14 at the Bonanza Branch Bank, Route 9W North.

Richard Rydant of Allgerville, Board member of the Delaware & Hudson Canal Historical Society will present the history illustrated by slides. A sampling of canal related artifacts from the society's museum will be displayed as well as books, photographs, prints and bottles which may be purchased to further the preservation work of the society.

The collectors' club is composed of area residents who collect Indian and early American artifacts, bottles, coins stamps and other items. Donald Wood is program chairman.

Cancer Films Slated

RED HOOK

Two films on cancer will be shown Nov. 14 in Red Hook, sponsored by the Concerned Parents and Teachers of Mill Road School.

The CPT program will begin in the Mill Road Cafeteria at 7:30 p.m., located on Rockefeller Lane off Linden Avenue.

The American Cancer Society, Dutchess County Chapter, has provided "Breast Cancer — Where We Are," narrated by Jennifer O'Neill, and "Up To You," a film on cervical cancer.

Also, Dr. Kenneth C. Appell of Rhinebeck, a surgeon, will speak on the subject and answer questions. Especially women are urged to attend this vital informational meeting, including high school students.

Refreshments will be served and American Cancer Society brochures will be distributed.

Two-Way Race In Dartball

SAUGERTIES

What was a three-way race for first place in the Saugerties Dartball League has suddenly turned into a two-way affair with Doggie's 'F' Troop and Cementon Sportsmen's Club the teams to beat.

The dartmen from Doggie's were right on target Nov. 4 as they swept a three game set from Katsbaan Apaches, leaving that team in third, a full six games off the pace.

But, alas, Cementon also came up with a sweep, taking Centerville Vols and leaving them for dead a full ten games back in fourth place.

Elsewhere, the middle of the league got well on the bottom of the league and three teams, Centerville, Malden-West Camps Vols and Trinity are tied for fifth with 12-15 records.

The Golden Eagles are in a nosedive plunging to 11-16 while West Camp sinks to 9-18. Highwoods Sportsmen's club, seems determined to wind up last. They were right in form, losing three to run their record to 4-23.

American Watercolors Exhibition

NEW PALTZ

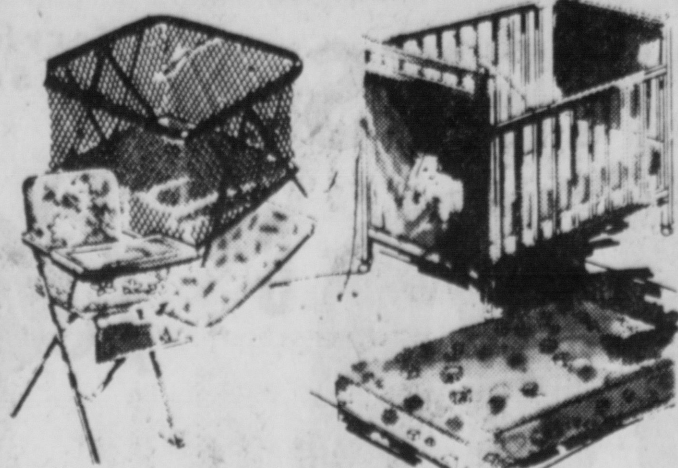

"American Watercolors," a three-week exhibit, opens Nov. 17 at the College Art Gallery at the State University College at New Paltz.

Chosen from public and private collections, the exhibition includes works by Charles Burchfield, Reginald Marsh, James Fitzgerald, Lewis Rubenstein, Dorothy Ruddick, and John Manning.

The exhibition opens with a reception sponsored by the Student Art Guild at 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 17. Following the opening the exhibition may be seen at regular gallery hours until Dec. 8. The gallery is open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Thursdays, from 10-4 other weekdays, and from 2-5 p.m. Sundays. The gallery is closed on Saturday and will be closed the four days of the Thanksgiving weekend.

Cancer Society . . . Facts and Figures for '75

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Cancer Society says about 222,000 Americans will be saved from cancer in 1975. Another 111,000 will probably die who might have been saved through earlier and better treatment.

In a report titled "Facts and Figures, 1975," the society said lung cancer, the No. 1 cancer killer among American men, has moved up from fourth to third as a cancer killer of women.

In 1975, some 17,600 women are expected to die as a result of lung cancer — 2,100 more than in 1974.

Breast cancer in 1975 will continue as the No. 1 cancer killer of women, with 33,000 deaths. This is the type of cancer that recently struck President Ford's wife, Betty, and vice president-designate Nelson Rockefeller's wife, Happy.

For both sexes, malignancies of the colon and rectum are the No. 2 cancer killers.

Authorities estimate heavy cigarette smoking causes at least 80 per cent of lung cancers.

"Facts Figure" reiterates the society's main battle plan — early detection — in the war on cancer. Other highlights of the report:

—The survival rate in cancer is one in three. In the 1930s fewer than one in five were being saved. In the 1950s one in four was being saved. The gain to one in three means the saving of an additional 55,000 lives a year.

Mass Transit Problems From N.Y. to Coast

Before the energy crisis struck, mass transit had a lot in common with a pair of old shoes — scuffed up and down at the heels.

But the image has changed. Mass transit is chic. Like windmills, mass transit represents an answer to the energy debacle and one way out of the clutches of oil barons.

But the rehabilitated image won't solve problems — and mass transit systems from New York to California face numerous problems.

Money is a major one. Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., and Rep. Joseph Minish, D-N.J., have introduced an $11.8 billion transportation bill, but the proposal is stalled in a House-Senate conference committee.

The spectre of a 70-cent bus and subway fare hangs over New York City unless Congress coughs up some money and the city finds at least $20 million in its overburdened budget.

A proposed Los Angeles County mass transit system was set back when voters defeated a proposition to increase county sales taxes by 1 per cent to help subsidize the system.

Even if the money problem is solved, mass transit proposals often get bogged down by disputes among local, state and federal authorities.

The new Regional Transportation Authority to coordinate mass transit in Chicago and its suburbs is deadlocked in a city-suburban dispute over who will head the agency.

Controversy over the proposed "Skybus" clouds the future of Pittsburgh's mass transit system.

Designed to transport outlying South Hills residents downtown, the program is embroiled in local and state politics.

The federal government gave the Allegheny County Port Authority an ultimatum to resolve the dispute or lose federal funds.

Chicago Transit Authority Chairman Milton Pikarsky posed this problem recently at a transportation planning conference:

"How do we effectively meet national goals, adhere to more specific state standards and still permit the local level of government to plan with a freedom from red tape or the danger of arbitrary rules imposed from upon high?"

Last winter's energy shortage boosted the number of bus and train passengers, but many lines are still under-utilized.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto abandons his limousine one day a week and rides by bus to City Hall in an effort to get more San Franciscans to ride city buses and trolleys.

Mass transit also must cope with crime in some cities. Chicago police reported robberies jumped 24.6 per cent in subway stations and on buses and trains.

Many intercity and commuter railroads are plagued by declining ridership, outmoded equipment, poor trackage, rising costs and declining profits.

However, the mass transit picture isn't entirely gloomy. San Francisco recently completed the world's first automated transit system and the nation's first new urban rail transit system since 1907.

Pittsburgh's bus and trolley ridership increased 12 per cent.

New York state voters passed a $250 million rail borrowing program expected to benefit intercity passenger service and commuter lines, including the purchase of five high-speed trains for the Buffalo, N.Y.-New York City run.

—The way statisticians figure it, of every six persons who get cancer today two will be saved and four will die. Nos. 1 and 2 will be saved. No. 3 will die but might have been saved with early diagnosis and prompt treatment. Nos. 4, 5 and 6 will die of cancer which cannot yet be controlled.

—During 1975 an estimated 1 million Americans will be under medical care for cancer. There will be about 665,000 new cases.

—There are now 1.5 million Americans who have been cured of cancer — free of disease at least five years after diagnosis and treatment.

—The death rate for men since 1930 has risen by over 40 per cent, due mainly to a 2,000 per cent increase for lung to 54.

—Cancer, a highly preventable disease.

—Since 1949 more men than women have been dying from cancer each year. In about 1975 the ratio was about 55 to 45.

—More than half of all deaths are among persons over 65.

—Cancer is the leading cause of death among women aged 30 to 54.

—More school children die of cancer than from any other disease. In 1975 cancer will take the lives of about 3,500 children under the age of 15. About half will die of acute leukemia.

—The overall incidence of cancer among men is increasing but among black men the incidence is substantially higher. The cancer mortality rate per 100,000 has gone up 50 per cent for black men against 16 per cent for white men. In black women, the mortality rate has been declining but by 3 per cent, while going down 9 per cent among white women.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, which showed jitters over the beginning of a nationwide coal strike and its repercussions in the previous session, opened lower today in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which plunged 13.46 Tuesday, was off 1.46 to 657.70 shortly after the opening. Declines led advances, 234 to 57, among the 438 issues crossing the tape. Turnover amounted to around 490,000 shares.

Some analysts said they thought some of the selling pressure evident Tuesday might be eased by progress in the coal negotiations in Washington. Negotiators for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, in a surprise move, have made a new proposal which may go a long way to settling unresolved issues.

Police Probe Hit-Run

ROSENDALE — An elderly Tillson man who is facing charges in county court of criminally negligent homicide in connection with an auto accident earlier this year in which two youths died was seriously injured Tuesday night in a hit-and-run car-pedestrian mishap in Rosendale.

Grover F. Dunn, of Box 883, Tillson, was reported struck by a car at about 9 p.m. while he was walking along Elting Road in Rosendale. Rushed from the scene by Don's Ambulance, Dunn was admitted to Kingston Hospital where he was listed in serious condition today in the intensive care unit.

Police said the only description they have of the vehicle which allegedly struck Dunn is that it was a red car.

Dunn has been indicted and faces trial on a charge of criminally negligent homicide in connection with a mishap last May on Route 32 south of Kingston in which Thomas J. Conroy, 19, and Gary Wright, 18, both of Tillson were killed.

Dunn was initially charged with driving while intoxicated following the head-on collision between his car and the auto carrying the youths.

Meanwhile, in another mishap Rafael Volpe, 40, of Highland was injured early today when his car ran off Route 44-55 about 3.8 miles east of Route 209 and flipped over.

Volpe was admitted to Ellenville Community Hospital where he was listed in fair condition today.

No summonses were issued at the scene.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CHANGES IN TELEPHONE RATE SCHEDULES

Notice is hereby given that the following proposed changes in telephone rate schedules have been filed with the Public Service Commission to be effective November 27, 1974.

Introduction of rates and charges for additional data set.

200 Series	Monthly Rate	Installation Charge
For use in connection with Exchange Facilities (DATAPHONES)
For sending and receiving at a fixed 4800 bits per second in sequence	$115.00*	$100.00*
Additional charge for modification of data set for rack mounting, each set		12.00
Racks may be furnished by the Company or the subscriber.

*The minimum charge per set is the monthly rate for 6 months plus the installation charge.

In lieu of the Telephone Company furnishing the above equipment at the above rates, the customer at his option may provide this equipment subject to tariff regulations.

YORK, Pa. (UPI) — The York Division of Borg-Warner Co. has succeeded in doing something to make more good eating apples available in the off-season — a refrigeration system called CA (for controlled atmosphere).

Last year, about 21 million bushels of apples were put in CA storage for off-season marketing. Another 61 million bushels went into ordinary storage. The stored apples numbered a little less than half the crop. The rest were eaten fresh—either raw or cooked.

CA refrigeration differs from other refrigeration by keeping the temperature fairly high at 29 to 40 degrees. CA storage depends on reducing the oxygen in the atmosphere of the refrigerated storage room to from 1.5 to 3.5 per cent of the air from the normal 20.8 per cent. This greatly slows down the stored apples' breathing and aging. It's a principle taken from nature.

For example, fish that hibernate can often stay in bottom waters that are low in oxygen. This enables even a fair-sized bass to survive through the winter on a diet of perhaps one minnow a week.

Similarly, the apples in CA storage do not ripen as they do in ordinary storage and the sugar in them does not ferment as it often does when apples are frozen or chilled too much. The humidity is kept high, around 90 per cent, to keep the apples from dehydrating.

The CA process is not new. It was first developed in England in the 1920s and brought to the United States in the 1940s. Its growth has not been rapid, however, because it originally was fairly expensive. Now, York and other refrigeration companies have developed refinements to control the temperature and humidity much more effectively and cheaply. The addition to CA storage rooms of air and vapor seals, automatic controls and such devices as carbon dioxide scrubbers and catalytic oxygen burners has improved the system.

KINGSTON, N.Y. (AP) — The 68th Annual Christmas Seal Campaign of the Catskill Region TB and Respiratory Disease Association will open in Kingston Thursday, Nov. 14, with the official observance of "Kick the Cigarette Habit Day," as proclaimed by Mayor Francis R. Koenig.

The special smoking education program will be given the immediate focus on the special day in the Ulster, Greene and Sullivan County region as part of a statewide observance.

The observance will continue as the educational Christmas Seal program through December, and will involve the non-smoker as well.

In signing the proclamation, Mayor Koenig noted, "Today more than ever, we cannot ignore the increasing incidence of the rapidly increasing and serious lung diseases which not only take their toll in lives, but cost millions of dollars in disability benefits each year."

Koenig continued, "All smokers are asked to give themselves, and non-smokers, the day of life and breath, and to give to Christmas Seals to prevent and control all lung diseases."

Miss Rose Marie Feeney, R.N., is chairman of the Kick the Cigarette Habit Day, the 1974 Christmas Seal Campaign in Kingston and Ulster County.

Plaza Suite At New Paltz

NEW PALTZ girl friend, played by Lois Plaza Suite, Neil Simon's comedy trio of one-acts, will be presented by "90 Miles Off Broadway" Nov. 14, 15 and 16 at New Paltz High School.

Three different directors and three different casts will interpret Simon's humorous story of three separate couples' stay in a suite in New York's Plaza Hotel.

Bill Sill of Kingston, a newcomer to 90 Miles, is directing Act I which features Tom Green and Judy Weatherford. Also appearing in this act is Yvonne O'Connor who has appeared with Kingston's Coach House Players on numerous occasions. Sill has also acted as well as directed for Coach House Players in Kingston and he appeared this summer on the showboat, "Driftwood" in Kingston.

In Act II he plays a successful Hollywood producer who lures his former high school Sievers, to his Plaza Suite. Pam Geuss, who has directed for 90 Miles and appeared as Nellie Ferbush in last spring's 90 Miles production of "South Pacific", is directing the second act.

Nancy Grosshans and Paul Assion will portray the married parents of a stubborn bride-to-be, who is locked in the bathroom in Act III. Mrs. Grosshans was awarded one of two citations in the best actress category at the recent Regional Theatre Festival of the New York State Theatre Associates.

Barbara Mainetti is directing Act III. She is joining 90 Miles for the first time but has worked with the County Players of Wappinger Falls as well as the Children Theatre on many occasions.

Reservations may be made through the 90 Miles box office. Curtain time is 8:30 each evening.

Leave Winter on the Doorstep!

Install modern electric heat by Federal Pacific

Here are the facts:—

1. Electric utility rates have risen sharply and no one likes it!
2. What caused this rate hike? The recent dramatic rise in the price of oils which the utility uses to fuel its generator.

The options for home heating are limited:

1. Gas and oil — the high priced (and going higher) culprits of our current fuel crisis.
2. Electricity — which will soon be generated by coal and nuclear power at a fraction of its present cost.

Federal Pacific is STILL the best way to heat!

Return to Nursing Course Completed; 25 Participate

Twenty-five nurses, many of whom have been out of the profession for some time, have completed a Return to Nursing course which Ulster County Community College offered at Benedictine Hospital in Kingston.

The coordinator of instruction was Miss Mary L. Keating, of Benedictine Hospital, who reported the course had been successful in acquainting the students with newer practices of nursing.

She said the majority of the persons in the UCCC course had been out of Nursing School for about 20 years. Some currently are employed as school nurses, in doctor's offices and nursing homes.

"They weren't familiar with some of the newer practices in nursing today," said Miss Keating, "and that is why they enrolled in this course."

Providing instruction in addition to Miss Keating, who is Inservice Coordinator, were Mrs. Margaret Carroll, Inservice Instructor; Mrs. Sonja Stark, Nurse Anesthetist; Mrs. Agatha Castiglione, Inservice Instructor, of Benedictine Hospital and Dr. David Gerbarg, a Kingston physician.

The credit-free course was designed to retrain inactive registered professional nurses by informing them of recent advances and trends in nursing. The topics covered included team nursing, nursing care plans, nursing assessment, respiratory therapy, cardiovascular nursing, and cancer and advanced nursing procedures.

Garden Club Elects Officers

Members of the Little Gardens Club of Kingston met recently for their final meeting of the 1974 season, at which time the annual report was read and officers for 1975 elected. The meeting took place at the home of Mrs. Richard Smith, Evergreen Lane, Hurley.

Heading the Club next year will be Mrs. James Brett, president; Mrs. Jack Lupton, vice president; Mrs. Clifford Henze, secretary; and Mrs. Dean Kintner, treasurer.

The Club season concludes with the annual luncheon on Thursday at DuBois Old Fort in New Paltz.

The annual report was submitted by the secretary. Among the many projects undertaken by the Club during the past year were various flower shows; demonstrations of good horticulture practice and proper flower arranging techniques; the making of corsages for residents of the Home for the Aged; providing plants for the gardens at Golden Hill Infirmary; donations to Kingston Library and to CARE for African relief.

The Club's programs are planned to keep members informed as to the latest and best horticultural practices and flower arranging methods through lectures, papers, talks, and seasonal demonstrations whenever possible.

Hostesses for the meeting included Mrs. Raymond Singley, Mrs. Dean Kintner, and Mrs. Everett S. Landers.

Nussbaum-Caliendo Wedding

The marriage of Joyce Anne Nussbaum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Nussbaum, of West Hurley, and Frank A. Caliendo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Caliendo of Peekskill, was held on Saturday, November 2, at St. John's Church in West Hurley. The Rev. Gerald O'Shea performed the double ring ceremony and Mrs. Dorothy Narel provided musical selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an A-line dress of Chantilly lace with renaissance sleeves, high neckline and a double flounce of Chantilly lace encircling the hemline. The lace headpiece and veil matched her dress. She carried a bouquet of white roses and carnations.

Miss Sally Caliendo, sister of the bridegroom, was the maid of honor. She wore a long gown of light blue crepe with a royal blue velvet bodice and a matching full length royal blue velvet coat. Her head piece matched her outfit and she carried a bouquet of blue carnations.

Gary Caliendo was the best man for his brother, Robert L. Nussbaum, brother of the bride, served as an usher.

The reception was given at the Roma Inn, Kingston.

Mrs. Caliendo graduated from Oontela Central School and SUNY at New Paltz with a BS degree in Elementary Education. She taught the second grade at the West Hurley School prior to her marriage.

Mr. Caliendo is a graduate of Peekskill High School, and SUNY at New Paltz with a BS degree in Education. He served three years in the U.S. Army, two of which were spent in Vietnam. He is an electrician for the Penn Central Railroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Caliendo are residing at Stonegate Apts., Peekskill.

Details may be had by contacting Mrs. Marie Ackerman, president, of Tillson.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

© 1974 The Emily Post Institute, Inc.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a bachelor in my early 30s, and I live alone. I met a young woman at a cocktail party recently whom I liked very much. When I left her, I asked if she would like to go out with me sometime, and she said she would. There is a dinner dance coming up soon, and I am planning to ask her to go with me.

The problem is that she lives about 60 miles from here. Since it would be too late for her to return home that same evening, she will have to spend the night at a hotel here in the city. (She doesn't know anyone here with whom she could stay).

Should I offer to pay for her hotel room? Please advise me because I want to do the right thing.

HARRY
Dear Harry: If you don't have any friends who could offer her a bed, you should pay her hotel bill. But she should pay for her transportation unless you are going to pick her up in your own car.

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter has just told us that she is engaged. Is an engagement party the time for the couples' engagement to be formally announced, or should the engagement be announced first and the party given as a celebration afterwards?

GLORIA PETERSON

Dear Mrs. Peterson: It can be done either way. When an engagement is announced at a party, it is supposed to be a surprise (rarely is, though), and the newspaper announcement is published the next day. More often, and just as proper, the engagement is announced in the paper and the occasion celebrated with a party shortly afterwards.

My booklet, "How to Plan and Budget Your Wedding," is ideal for brides-to-be, their fiancés and parents in helping to prepare for the "perfect" wedding. To get a copy, send 50 cents in coins to cover booklet and mailing expenses to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Daily Freeman.

NOVEMBER GARDENING CALENDAR

Now that November is here hoes and weedeaters may be packed away for the winter, but there are still several last-minute jobs you can tend to that will make gardening more pleasant next season, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

Keep leaves raked up as they fall. Dry leaves are much easier to handle. Remember too, it that is the wet, soggy masses of leaves that smother lawn grasses.

Clean up dead and frosted plant refuse in the flower and vegetable gardens. Start spading up spots in the soil for early planting in the spring.

Compost your leaves and garden refuse. Organic refuse, soil, some fertilizer, and a gardener's patience are the essential ingredients for successful composting.

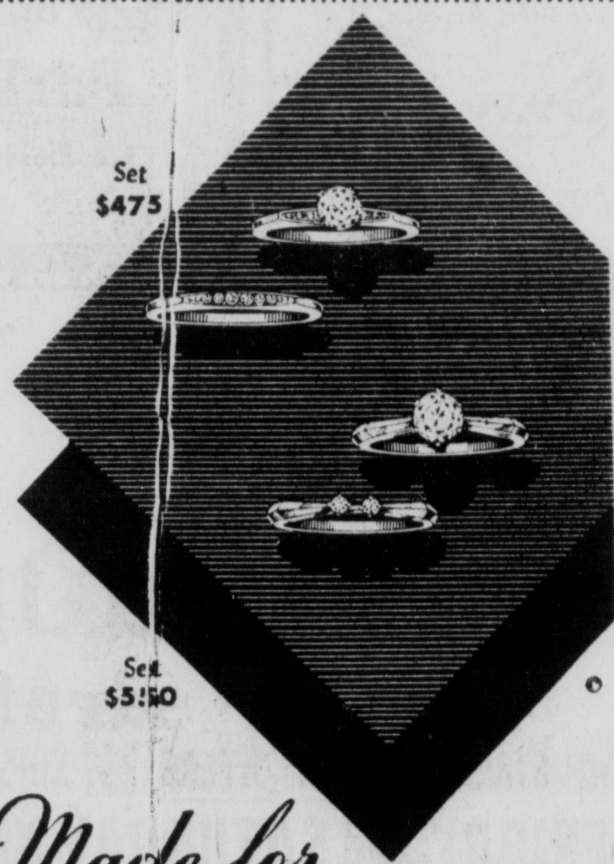

Make good use of a rainy Saturday morning to clean, sharpen, and oil your garden tools.

Before storing your lawnmower for the winter, put it in condition for another busy season. Does it need sharpening and other adjustments? Does the oil need changing? Has the motor been slow to start lately? Now is the time to send the mower out for any repairs and maintenance. Repair shops are swamped in the spring and may not be able to return your mower for two or three weeks.

Check the moisture levels on geraniums and potted plants you have stored in the cellar. Pinch them back if you have not already done so. Pot some parsley and other herbs to keep inside on a windowsill during the winter months.

Inventory your vegetable and flower seed supplies. Start making your order list for spring.
Don't forget your spring bulbs. Get them into the ground now for a bright show of color next spring. Plant tulip and hyacinth bulbs in pots for indoor forcing. After the pots have cooled for 6-8 weeks, cover them with a layer of leaves to protect the soil from freezing solid. Plant narcissus and daffodils in planters using decorative stones. Place in a cool, dark spot to encourage root development for later forcing.

Caller for Lefooters Dance

Lefooters western Square Dance Club will feature guest caller Don Hanhurst, of Wappingers Falls, at its dance Friday evening at Hurley Reformed Church Hall, off Route 209. This dance will be called at the intermediate level, and will begin at 8 p.m.

A Round Dance of the Month workshop will be taught by Olin and Eleanor MacSorley, beginning promptly at 7:30 for those dancers who have already had a working knowledge of the basic round dance steps.

Don Hanhurst is a full-time square dance caller with many years of experience. He started calling 16 years ago and spent 10 of those years calling in the Denver, Colorado area. While in Denver, he called for many clubs, including one for single people which eventually grew to be the largest club of its kind in the country.

Hanhurst has also served as president of the Denver Square Dance Callers Association. He moved to Dutchess County about seven years ago and started a square dance class which, one year later became the Boots and Bows Club in Wappingers Falls. In addition to the Boots and Bows and his guest calling, he is club caller and instructor for three other square dance clubs. He also runs a summer square dance club at the YMCA in Poughkeepsie.

Senior Citizens Christmas Party

At the bi-monthly meeting of the First Senior Citizens' Club of Saugerties held November 7 at the Dutch Arms Chapel, John Street, Saugerties, it was announced that on Friday, Dec. 6 at 7:30 p.m., the annual Christmas party, sponsored by Saugerties Democratic Club, will be held at Glasco firehall. All senior citizens in Saugerties are invited.

Courtesy Cards offered by the Saugerties Central School System, entitling all holders to free admission to all school activities, were distributed to those in attendance which numbered 106. However, all senior citizens in Saugerties are entitled to these cards upon request at either Club No. 1 or No. 2 for Club members, or the Administration Building, Hill Street. The 10 per cent restaurant discount card offered by Howard Johnson's to all senior citizens were distributed also. These cards are acceptable throughout New York State and Connecticut.

The next meeting is planned for Thursday, Nov. 21 at 1 p.m. at the Dutch Arms Chapel.

Helpful Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE AFTER THE FIRE IS OVER.

Dear Heloise: After a fairly severe basement fire, we noticed that the bathroom faucets are tarnished and won't shine no matter what kind of polish is used. Please help us.

MR. C.S. FLEMMING
Dear Mr. Flemming: Don't fret much longer. Mr. Martin L. King, a friend of mine who is with the National Institute of Fire Restoration in Washington, D.C., has my problem all figured out. I am also happy that you brought up the subject, as homes have fires every day, and the answer may help others.

"Sad but true. The acids in smoke can permanently tarnish chrome-plated faucets, shower rods, and appliance trim.

It may be too late for Mr. Flemming, but others can prevent this damage after a fire by immediately wiping down faucets and trim with light machine oil (such as sewing machine oil). Hunting rifles can be attended to in the very same simple way."

Now, Mr. King, we want to say bless you for answering this problem for us. I didn't even know that when my home was "swept." And heaven forbid that it happens to any of my precious readers. It's heartbreaking.

HELOISE

Dear Heloise: Most women sort of panic when something mechanical goes wrong with their refrigerators and they have to wait for the repair man, thinking all their food is going to spoil.

Just go to any place that sells DRY ice (look in the yellow pages), or even an ice cream plant, buy a slab of the dry ice. Handle it with gloves and put it in your freezer compartment. It will keep your food cold for a minimum of two or three days. Add more dry ice as it (the ice) evaporates.

SOL CRONER

True, Checked.

HELOISE

Dear Heloise: We have always enjoyed a "homemade" Christmas, making gifts, decorations, etc. Needing new ideas, we organized a homemade Christmas ideas exchange with interested friends and neighbors.

Each brought favorite homemade Christmas items to share with the others. We were very excited at the evening's end with our wealth of new ideas.

We hold our Christmas idea exchange in early fall, so that we have enough time to make the items we want for the yule season.

CINDY DAVIS

Dear Heloise: This is meant as a warning for those, who like me, don't think first and grab an ovenware dish instead of a glass ceramic dish to boil

Women Will Receive Gifts At Upcoming Hospital Dinner

Every woman who attends the Ellenville Community Hospital 50th Anniversary Dinner Dance at the Homowack Lodge will receive a special gift. It was announced by Arthur C. Chipp and Leo E. Rosick, dinner co-chairmen. The gift will represent a token of appreciation from the hospital Board of Trustees for the dedicated service of women to the hospital throughout the history of the auxiliary.

The token gift to be presented at the November 24 gala will be in addition to the third in a series of sterling silver liqueur cups mailed to dinner patrons following the event. The sterling cups, which have appreciated in value considerably since they were first presented as a memento following the 1972 dinner, are a gift of the Schrade Cutlery Corp. to the hospital dinner.

Reservations for the event may be made by phoning Evald Bors-Koefoed, hospital administrator, or by contacting any member of the hospital Board of Trustees.

Funds raised will be used to purchase needed hospital equipment.

Dr. Lamb

Crohn's Disease Affects Intestines

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, MD

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am very anxious to find out as much as I can about Crohn's disease. My daughter has this and there is very little information about it.

She is quite depressed after taking Prednisone treatment. Is this considered a serious illness? Can it ever be corrected or cured or does one always suffer with it? Can a person lead a normal life? At this point she cannot hold down a full-time job as she never knows when the pain will come and has had to give up two jobs because of this.

DEAR READER — Fortunately this is a fairly rare disease. It is common enough though, that President Eisenhower had it for many years before he was operated upon during his Presidency. The obstruction he developed then was a complication and usually only occurs after years of problems. The disease is also called regional enteritis.

The common form is an inflammation of the terminal region of the small intestine where it joins the colon in the lower right part of the abdomen. The inflamed part is swollen and may cause a mass. Its location causes right lower abdominal pain and the attack resembles acute appendicitis in many respects.

We do not know what causes the disease, even though its characteristics are well known. No virus, bacteria or other common abnormal process has been identified that produces the inflammation.

That makes it hard to treat. The treatment varies with the severity of the disease and how it affects a person. The usual features of the disease are the lower abdominal pain and diarrhea. Usually the diarrhea is mild. Fatigue and weight loss may occur, particularly if the patient isn't careful to get enough nourishment. Problems in absorbing food from the diseased intestine may cause vitamin and mineral deficiencies and require more attention to getting enough protein in the diet. Continued small losses of blood may also cause an iron deficiency anemia.

The nature of the disease is to have periods of attacks and periods of remission. Sometimes a person may go for years without a recurrence of the problem.

Yes, many patients with this problem do live a normal life. Eisenhower was certainly one good example, well known to almost everybody. This should encourage your daughter.

You get different answers from physicians depending upon their experience. Dr. Crohn himself thinks medical management will be adequate in 90 per cent of the cases and perhaps only 10 per cent need surgery, as did Eisenhower.

There are some general suggestions. Be sure to eat a good diet. If there is an element of obstruction avoid roughage, bulk foods and since milk sometimes triggers an attack it is well to avoid milk. But it will be important to use a substitute for calcium and protein (try one of the nonmilk products used for babies.) Don't get over tired.

Just keep in mind that a lot can be done to control the disease. It may even go into remission on its own, and many people have led good, productive and happy lives with the same problem.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on balanced diet, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for the "Balanced Diet" booklet. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Let's Check This Out

A check for $2,000 from the Northern Dutchess Hospital Mothers Club to the hospital has been presented by (L-R) Joann Buerkert and Pam Martin in concert with one of the club's seasonal activities, bringing in pumpkins for young patients to decorate. The check completes the group's third installment of its $10,000 pledge to the hospital expansion fund, with proceeds earmarked for the pediatrics and maternity departments.

All-Comedy Night at High Falls

Saturday evening, Nov. 16, will be all-comedy night at The High Falls Film Festival.

First there will be a 1938 musical romp through the Alps with Laurel and Hardy in "Swiss Miss," featuring that famous scene with Stand and Ollie carrying a piano across a spindly rope bridge a mile high above a mountain gorge while being pursued by a gorilla.

Next there will be Howard Hawks' fast paced newspaper comedy, "His Girl Friday," based on the famous play, "The Front Page." This 1940 classic stars Cary Grant and Rosalind Russell.

Free refreshments will be served between films.

Show time 8 p.m. at High Falls firehouse. The films are being sponsored by Marbletown Artists Association.

Nature's flour makes breads that disappear.

Bread baking is really nothing to be afraid of.

Our one, easy King Arthur recipe will make three of our favorite breads: Rich White, Cheese, and Cinnamon-Raisin.

And all from one dough. You'll only need four hours or so. (Most of that time, the bread is doing all the work itself!)

And then you'll have delicious, homemade, natural bread that's bound to disappear almost as fast as you can slice it.

Why do we say natural bread?

Well, we don't bleach our flour to make it white. Or add any additives. It's naturally white, and naturally pure. We've made it that way ever since 1790.

That's what makes King Arthur Flour nature's flour.

And it has the higher protein content (gluten) that's so important in baking. (It gives your bread greater volume and better texture.)

So open up a bag of our good King Arthur. And let's bake bread.

Here's what you'll need:

Yield: 3 loaves
2 cups water
1 can (5 1/2 oz.) evaporated milk
1/2 cup oil or margarine
1/4 cup honey or sugar
1 tablespoon salt
2 pkgs. active dry yeast
7 to 8 cups King Arthur Flour
Cinnamon-Raisin Filling: (per loaf)
2 tablespoons sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/4 cup raisins
Cheese filling: (per loaf)
3 tablespoons grated American cheese (more or less to taste)

Mixing
Combine water, milk and shortening in a saucepan and heat until lukewarm. Pour into mixing bowl, add honey, salt, yeast, and 2 cups King Arthur Flour.

Beat 2 minutes with an electric beater. Then, stirring by hand, gradually add enough flour until the dough pulls away cleanly from the sides of the bowl.

Kneading

Put dough on a lightly floured board. To knead, fold the far edge of the dough back over on itself toward you. Press into the dough, pushing away with the heels of your hands. Repeat in a continuous rhythm.

(After each push, turn the dough about one-fourth of the way around.) While kneading, sprinkle only enough flour on the board to avoid sticking. Knead for 7 or 8 minutes, or until dough is smooth and elastic and doesn't stick to the board.

Before rising

Round the dough into a smooth ball. Place it in a lightly greased bowl, turning over to grease the entire surface. Cover the bowl with a towel and set in a warm place.

(In cooler weather, place the bowl on a heating pad, set on low.) Let dough rise 1-1/2 hours or until double in bulk.

After rising

Punch down into the bowl with your fist to break up gas pockets. Divide the dough into three pieces.

For Rich White bread: Form one piece of dough into two round balls, and place them in a greased bread pan.

For Cinnamon-Raisin bread: Roll out one piece of dough into a rectangle 12-15 in. long and wide enough to fit the length of your bread pan. Sprinkle with cinnamon-sugar mixture, then raisins. Roll tightly, jelly-roll style, sealing ends and seam. Place seam side down in a greased pan.

For Cheese bread: Follow above directions, substituting the cheese for the cinnamon-raisin mixture.

Let dough rise about an hour, or until double in bulk.

Baking

Bake in a pre-heated 375 degree oven for 35 minutes with pans apart. To make sure bread is done, remove a loaf from the pan and tap the bottom with your fingertips. If it sounds hollow, it's done.

Remove the bread from the pans immediately and place on cooling racks. (Since we add no preservatives, you'll probably want to freeze one or two loaves in plastic bags.)

Some favorite recipes

If you'd like to try our "Baking For Fun" or "Bread Baking Mac's Easy" recipes, write to me, Bert Porter, King Arthur Flour Company, 130 Fawcett Street, Cambridge, Mass. 02138.

And let me know how your bread came out, too.

Case of an Overdose of Peaches?

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column that a guy named Walter, age 52, had a heart attack, and he got well enough to play tennis three times a week, but not well enough to make love to his old lady.

I am 56, have had two heart attacks, and I make love to three different dames three nights a week.

Tennis I'll leave to Walter. Sign me.

DEAR ABBY: How do you forget a guy? He and I had a great relationship for two months, then his old girl friend started calling him and he started seeing her again, and that's when I lost him.

He said he thought he could care for me, and I know he meant it. I fell in love with him the first night we were alone together.

When the other girl was out of the picture, things were perfect between us, but when she came back, I gradually saw him less and less. Finally I couldn't stand it any longer.

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

and told him we had to talk openly and freely. He said he cared for the other girl a lot, but he cared for me, too. He even admitted that he didn't know why he cared for the other girl because she treated him like dirt, and I treated him good.

Abby, is this what I get for being nice? I told him I couldn't handle a part-time relationship, and he said he'd think it over.

I haven't heard from him since. I am miserable and depressed. Should I call him and ask if there is still hope for us? I am 22 and he is 21. The other girl is 19. Please help me.

caught him temporarily — on the rebound — but the moment his old girl friend whistled, he came running, which proves his feeling for her was only dormant, not dead.

It's strange how some people prefer those who treat them like "dirt." (They practically ask for abuse because unconsciously they don't have a very high opinion of themselves, and feel they deserve it.)

I know it's not easy to "forget" a guy you think you love, but if you concentrate on other things, instead of dwelling on him, you can do it. Start today!

baby-sitters who write and complain that they can't stand dirty houses:

I was a sinner once myself, for many years, in fact. Some of the houses where I went to sit were very untidy, to say the least. But why complain and act so self-righteous? Some women are poor housekeepers because they never were taught any different. Some are lazy, and others don't feel very well most of the time.

Instead of complaining about the messy house, why not clean it up? Then you can "sit" in a clean house and also have the indescribable inner joy of helping others without being told, or expecting to be paid for it. It will make you feel good all over.

Above all, be charitable, and don't tell others about the woman's poor housekeeping. And read Corinthians 13. We all need love.

MRS. W.R. KENNEWICK, WASH. DEAR MRS. R: You are beautiful.

A HANDY GIFT BY ANY MEASURE

The next time a child of your acquaintance has a birthday—or you just want to buy a waist-high friend a gift on general principles—think of a present that's fun, educational and practical. Think of a pocket-sized, six-foot-long tape measure!

Several companies now market tapes that are very attractive and compact enough (coiled in their cases, they're about 2" X 2" X 1/4") to slip into even a little girl's purse or a boy's pocket. Best of all, a six-foot tape still sells for less than $2.00 . . . and how many worthwhile gifts can you buy for two bucks nowadays?

Actually, I probably shouldn't represent these small tape measures as being suitable presents for only children. Anyone of any age can find plenty of uses for the handy little tools.

But if you really want to see someone appreciate a gift of their very own tape measure, try presenting one to a little boy or girl about four years old. I have . . . and I've found that such a child simply delights in measuring every door, chair, spoon and dog that crosses his or her path during the following week.

'Alternatives for Women,' Workshop Planned at DCC

There are many alternatives in education for the mature woman, and these will be explored at Dutchess Community College Nov. 15. ## BPW Club to Honor Scholarship Winners

Northern Dutchess Business and Professional Women's Club will honor the recipients of its Dutchess Community College Scholarship awards for 1973-74 at a dinner meeting November 19. The two girls to be honored are Deborah Devries and Deborah Doherty, both from the Rhinebeck area. Anthony Adamo, assistant to Dean James B. Harr, will represent Dutchess Community College.

The meeting will be held at the Beekman Arms in Rhinebeck. Cocktails are planned for 6 p.m. with dinner slated for 7 o'clock.

Northern Dutchess BPW raises the money for the scholarships by means of an annual fashion show which took place this year on November 8.

Some Handy Food Tips

Whip butter or margarine with honey and nutmeg and serve as a delightful topping for French toast.

Adding freshly grated lemon rind to lemon pudding and pie filling mix helps perk up the mix's flavor.

Romano is a delightfully flavored cheese that may often be substituted for the Parmesan that recipes usually call for.

Top canned pear halves with vanilla or coffee ice cream and serve with chocolate sauce for a company dessert. Easy but good!

Sport Club Breaks Even In Wacky Soccer World

KINGSTON The Kingston Sport Club Kickers have won one and lost one in their incredible safari into Division III of the German-American Soccer League.

The victory? The league's board of directors has ordered a replay of the disputed contest with Stamford (Conn.) that ended in a 2-2 tie or was it the other way around, Stamford 2, Kingston 1.

The defeat? Well, the Kickers travelled to Red Hook Park No. 2 in Brooklyn last Sunday, ostensibly to play Deportivo of New York. One slight miscalculation, or was it? The Kickers arrived at 1:30 p.m. for a 2:30 p.m. contest. Well on time, you say? Wrong. Deportivo officials said the contest was scheduled to start at 12:30 p.m. Ergo, a forfeit for Deportivo.

"Nobody told us about a change in starting time," says Joel Tomson, the combination goalie-public relations director of the Sport Club.

Did anybody check the Staats-Herold, the German-American newspaper . . . just in case.

Salaries for Athletes

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — The new president of the Amateur Athletic Union said Tuesday U.S. athletes should be paid salaries while competing internationally.

Joseph R. Scalzo, Toledo, told a news conference that Eastern European countries pay their athletes in international competition and that the U.S. should offer the same incentives.

Scalzo, a former U.S. Olympic wrestling coach and now a business executive, said his proposal to business, industry and other segments of U.S. society was "a challenge to the free enterprise system" in competition with the socialist world.

"The American athlete who takes part 2-3 months every year in international competition can't make it without pay," Scalzo said.

"Close to half of our athletes don't even try out under these circumstances," he added. "I'm challenging industry and the private sector to join us in this effort."

He said his plan will make the free enterprise system "equal to the socialist countries we compete against."

"I believe a program like this will be approved by one company after the other," Scalzo predicted.

He said his firm, Sun Oil Co. of Toledo, has become the first large company to subscribe to his plan.

Bonavena Stops Vaka In Eighth in Honolulu

HONOLULU (UPI) — Heavyweight Oscar Bonavena of Argentina knocked out a game but outclassed Mani Vaka of Tonga in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round Tuesday night at the Honolulu International Center.

Bonavena, 209 1/2 and the No. 4 ranked heavyweight, caught Vaka on the ropes late in the fifth round and pummeled him with lefts and rights to the head. The end came at 2:44 when Vaka crumbled and sagged to the canvas, his feet in the ring and half his body lying across the bottom strand of the ropes.

Bonavena took all the rounds.

Bonavena decked Vaka twice in the second round. The 207 pound Vaka stung Bonavena with straight rights to the head.

The closest was the third when Bonavena with straight rights to the head.

Canadian heavyweight Bob Bozic 204 1/2 of Toronto took a split and loudly booed decision from the Koroseta Kid, 200 1/2, of Pago Pago in their eighth rounder. In the semifinal, Al Gutierrez, 114, of the Philippines knocked out Mario Rogelio 112 1/2 of Mexico in 1:47 of the fifth.

Osamu Toku, 127 of Japan, stopped Modesto Dayaganon 127 1/2 of the Philippines in 59 seconds of the third round.

Surina Tops In Tourney

CHICAGO (UPI) — Matt Flannery, the defending champion, Surina, a Longview, Wash., pro, rolled a perfect 300 in his second game of the evening set but was far down the line in 17th place at 3,503. Godman's perfect game was the fourth turned in thus far in the tournament. The others were by Don Helling, St. Louis, Greg Badereen of Ontario, Calif., and Ron Lisher of Santa Rosa, Calif.

The tourney completed its second day at the Northern Bowl in suburban Glendale Heights with one more eight-game block on tap today before the 192-man field is cut to 64 players.

Surina led Larry Laub of San Francisco by only eight pins. Surina, a two-time champion, was in seventh place at the beginning of play Tuesday but downed 1,799 pins with high games of 258 and 248 to put his two-day total at 3,675—an average of over 229.

Laub, the runnerup here two years ago, moved into second with a 1,800-pin showing. Bill Spigner of Hamden, Conn., trailed Laub by six pins. Laub, second on this year's pro earnings list with more than $62,000, had games of 259 and 258 while Spigner, seeking his first title, rolled a high of 258 in his 1,811 block.

Jim Godman of Vero Beach, Fla., rolled a perfect 300 in his second game of the evening set but was far down the line in 17th place at 3,503. Godman's perfect game was the fourth turned in thus far in the tournament. The others were by Don Helling, St. Louis, Greg Badereen of Ontario, Calif., and Ron Lisher of Santa Rosa, Calif.

Peter J. McGovern, chief executive officer and board chairman of the Little League, announced in Williamsport, Pa., Tuesday the Little League Baseball Series would be confined to the four regional champions in the United States.

Rodolfo Tinzon, president of Little League Baseball-Philippines, said the action by McGovern was a "big blow to the sport. It is unsportsmanlike on the part of the Americans to render such a decision. It is unfair to Asians."

"Instead of confining the World Series to American teams, why don't they formulate a policy to adopt a system preventing a nation from winning the title two years in a row?"

Taiwan has won the title the past four years.

UCCC Plans Alumni Game

STONE RIDGE

Ulster County Community College Alumni Association will sponsor its second annual Alumni basketball game Saturday, Nov. 23, at 8 p.m. in the Senate Gym. Proceeds will be to the scholarship fund. Association president Keith Jordan announced.

The Jerry Senators of vesteryear, headed by current coach Jerry Moss, will take on the 1974-75 varsity. The game marks the first appearance of UCCC's latest edition of Senators.

Moss was the first UCCC athlete to gain All-American recognition in basketball in addition to being named to the Region XV and Mid-Hudson Conference all-star teams for two successive seasons.

The alumni won the first game last season. "It was an excellent game and I am sure that this year's contest will be equally exciting," said Jordan.

Funds earned through the game will go toward scholarships to aid students going to Ulster. "We gave two scholarships a year ago," said Jordan, "and hope to continue this worthy endeavor."

Cicio Wins UCCC Tennis

STONE RIDGE

Ron Cicio, a former Kingston High School varsity player, defeated Rick Salzman, also of Kingston, in straight sets, 6-0, 6-2, in the finals of the UCCC Intramural tennis tournament.

Coach B. Edson Decker, who officiated the semi-finals and finals of the tournament, said the scores did not indicate the high level of play in the match. "Most games went to several deuces before Ron could pull out two in a row with his steady, hard-driving strokes," said Decker.

Cicio defeated Richie Short 6-2, 6-0 in the semi-finals after a close tie-breaker win of 8-7 (5-1) over Jon Forster of Smithtown, L.I. in the quarter finals.

Salzman's semi-final win was over John Ivankovic, another ex-KHS player after a quarter-final victory over Vince Giovenco.

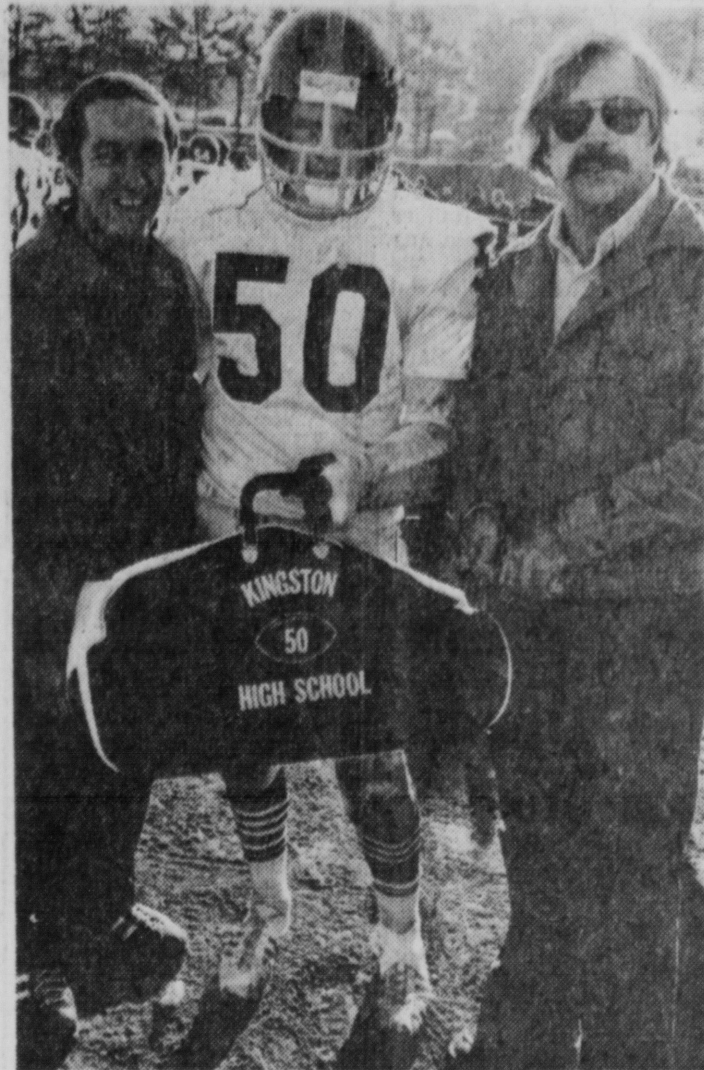

Since there were 34 contestants in the tournament, a consolation bracket was played off, with Greg Van Kleec of Rosendale defeating Kathleen Murray of Ellenville, 6-2, 2-6, 6-2, in the finals.

Rondout, OCS JV Winners

KINGSTON

Rondout Valley High's junior varsity football team rebounded from its first loss of the season to rout Ellenville, 34-0, in last week's action.

In another game, Onteora evened its record at 4-4 by tripping New Paltz, 13-0. No other scores were reported.

Rondout thoroughly dominated the Ellies as it racked up 342 total yards to the losers' 54.

"Our defense was exceptional," said RVC coach Larry Skalla, "scoring one touchdown and setting up two others."

Rondout scored on a 31 yard run by Dave McBride; a two yard run with a recovered fumble by Pete Fiore; a 70 yard pass play from Barry Stroeble to Carl Grassi; a 17-yard run by Grassi; and a 25 yard run by McBride.

The little Ganders are 7-1 on the year, having lost only to Red Hook.

Anthony Turck scored touchdowns on runs from two and five yards out to pace Onteora over New Paltz.

Vittorio de Sica Dead, Pioneer of Italian Movies

ROME (UPI) — Vittorio de Sica, 73, one of the pioneers of the new realism in Italian cinema, died today in Paris, a spokesman for his friend Carlo Ponti announced.

Dead in N. Y.

Jane Ace, who starred for years with her husband, Goodman, on the "Easy Aces" radio show, died Monday at Doctor's Hospital in New York City. She was 74. (UPI)

"Mr. De Sica died at 5 a.m. today in Paris," the spokesman said.

De Sica, an Oscar-winning director, showed that Hollywood had no monopoly on cinema creativity.

His most famous directorial effort, "The Bicycle Thief," won an Oscar in 1949. It was his second—the first came two years earlier for "Shoe Shine," the first in a series of postwar films about which one critic remarked:

"De Sica is the poet of suffering, the spokesman for the poor and the humble of this earth."

As an actor, he co-starred with and helped make famous Italian actresses Gina Lollobrigida and Sophia Loren.

Youth Takes Woman's Purse

KINGSTON
City detectives are investigating a purse-snatching incident Tuesday night on Pine Street.

Ilona Carr of Saugerties told police she was walking along Pine Street at about 6 p.m. when a black youth ran up behind her and grabbed her purse away.

The purse contained about $21 and personal papers, the woman told police.

The thief was described as being in his middle to late teens and was wearing a short jacket, dark pants and sneakers at the time of the theft.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

TWICE: (Q) About a year ago my brother got his girl friend pregnant. This hurt my parents deeply. I saw this hurt.

Now I'm pregnant and I'm afraid to tell my parents. Running away seems like the only logical answer. But where can I run?—17 in New York.

(A) In running away, you would hurt your parents far more deeply than you would in telling them the truth. They would know you are in trouble but not be able to help you. If you tell them, they can and will help you. Tell them today. Ask them to help you.

SPECIAL: (Q) I'm bashful and I like this girl and want to get to know her better. She is special to me. What should I do?

Also, I don't have any friends.—Alone in Texas.

(A) I think your problems are really one problem instead of two. When you get over being so bashful, you will probably have a little trouble making friends, both male and female.

So I suggest you do everything you can to overcome that backwardness about your social self. This means getting involved, acting and looking your best at all times, and forgetting yourself and thinking of others.

Give this special girl a telephone call. Have something specific to talk about and do not drag out the conversation too long. Make it quick so that you stop talking before she gets tired of talking with you and while she still would like to talk with you some more.

A few friendly calls like this should help you and her to know each other better.

Seven Frat Members Charged In Initiation Hazing Death

LONG BRANCH, N.J. (UPI) — The first black member of a college fraternity died during initiation hazing Tuesday. Seven fraternity members have been charged with manslaughter.

William Flowers, 19, of Neptune, N.J., and four other pledges, were ordered to dig mock graves in sand, and had to lie down in their graves as part of the rite. Flowers suffocated when the walls of his six-foot-deep "grave" collapsed, police said.

Authorities said fraternity members tried to pull him out feet first. When that failed, they tried to dig him out with their hands, but that, too, was unsuccessful. He was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Flowers, a chemistry major, was the first black pledge of the 15-member Monmouth College chapter of Zeta Beta Tau, a national social fraternity.

Det. Capt. Michael A. Irene said the pledges were ordered to "dig their own graves" as "more or less a symbolic thing."

Five holes six feet long and six feet deep were dug on the beach near the two-story fraternity house. Police said the pledges were ordered to lie in the holes. Seven fraternity members ceremoniously sprinkled a few grains of sand over the holes.

When the walls collapsed, "someone grabbed him by his legs, leaving him head first in the hole," police said.

Jane Schonener, a spokeswoman for the college, said college policy permits initiation, but it prohibits "abusive physical or mental activities."

She said it was probable that disciplinary action would be taken against the fraternity members.

College President Richard J. Stonesifer said he was concerned and called the initiation rite "nonsense."

Flowers was a transfer student from St. Peter's College in Jersey City, N.J., and entered Monmouth as a second semester chemistry major. He was a graduate of Christian Brothers Academy in Lincroft.

Those charged in Flowers' death were fraternity President Richard Preece, 21, of Long Branch, N.J.; Treasurer Howard Raff, 21, of New Brunswick, N.J.; Frank Yavarow, 19, of Neptune, N.J.; Brian Sella, 19, of Paramus, N.J.; Cory Wilson, 19, of Oceanside, N.Y.; Robert Caemerer, 19, of Allenwood, N.J.; and Glen Hart, 19, of New Milford, N.J.

The seven were arraigned and ordered held in lieu of $2,500 bail. A hearing was set for Nov. 25.

S. Africa Ouster First Ever for UN

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Black-led African nations today applauded the ouster of South Africa from the U.N. General Assembly, but the Pretoria government recalled its ambassador and cut off its contributions to the world body.

Prime Minister John Vorster said in Johannesburg that "South Africa will decide in her own time what the next step will be."

"The decision is an example of how the United Nations manages to circumvent its own manifesto to perpetrate an illegal action," Vorster said.

Vorster said South Africa would immediately stop its annual payments of about $1 million and had recalled its ambassador indefinitely.

The 91-22 decision to deprive the white supremacist South African regime of its rights and privileges for the session which ends Dec. 17 was without precedent in the United Nations' 29-year history.

Delegates from Africa's black-ruled nations, who fought to exclude South Africa because of its policy of racial separatism — apartheid — led the applause and cheering in the assembly hall Tuesday night when the decision was announced.

South African Ambassador Roelof Botha, however, called the suspension "an act of desperation, not of hope."

Whatever you do I say to you, you cannot suspend our existence, our ideals, our place in this world."

The United States, Britain and a number of Western European and South American countries criticized South Africa's apartheid policies, but an assembly session since the voted against suspension. Nine world body voted Sept. 30 teen countries abstained from voting.

The United States, Britain and France last month vetoed an attempt in the Security Council to expel South Africa from the United Nations.

The assembly vote bars South Africa from taking its seat, speaking or voting in the assembly, but does not oust it from the world body.

The seats of the South African delegation were empty at the time of the vote. The country has not participated in a world body session since the world body voted Sept. 30 against accepting the delegate's credentials.

Monmouth College Reaction ...Shock and Disappointment

LONG BRANCH, N.J. (UPI) William Flowers, of Neptune, N.J., died Tuesday at Monmouth College. The academic community at Monmouth College remains shocked and disappointed today by the death of a 19-year-old fraternity pledge who was killed when sand around a hole he was lying in as part of a fraternity initiation collapsed and buried him.

As a result of the death of Flowers, the first black pledge in the history of the Monmouth College chapter of the national social fraternity, was evacuated from the hole by police after the fraternity station WMCX said students he members could not dig him out of the hole with their hands.

The victim was pronounced dead on arrival at Monmouth Medical Center.

Results of an autopsy performed later in the day showed that Flowers died of asphyxiation and fluid entering the brain and lungs.

At Monmouth College, which is about one mile west and a mile-and-a-half to the south of the incident, the atmosphere was described by a student as "very, very glum... and really weird."

The student said a number of students he was in contact with Tuesday said they left or stayed away from classes.

Both the American flag and the college flag were flying at half-mast on campus.

An employee at student radio police after the fraternity station WMCX said students he members could not dig him out of the hole with their hands.

"They were really surprised that the frats are still living like they're in the caveman age, and haven't grown up," said the student, who asked to remain unidentified.

"The point is, that frats have grown up elsewhere out of necessity to survive, but they haven't here," Richard J. Stonesifer, president of the college, issued a statement saying "my heart goes out to the mother and the family of the deceased."

He called the initiation rite "non-sense" and said he was "concerned" about such activities.

New Talks With Indians

EAGLE BAY, N.Y. (UPI) — said the organization wants the state to evict the Indians so that the matter could at least be decided in the courts.

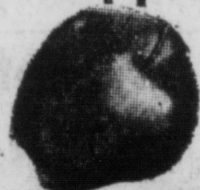

About 100 Mohawks, who moved into the camp in May, claim the land it theirs under a treaty dating back to the 1700s. The state, which purchased the land, claims the Mohawks do not own the site.

The conflicting claims of sovereignty have created roadblocks to the investigation of the shootings.

Negotiations for the state police and the Indians said some progress had been made during talks Monday.

Meanwhile, a group calling itself the Concerned Persons of the Central Adirondacks has urged the state to evict the Indians from the 612-acre former girls' camp.
